EGYPT IS OFFERED PACT BY WEST

CONSIDERING his plodding gait and relatively small load-hauling ability, it's a safe guess that it would take this ox and his cart quite a few light years to do the work accomplished by the huge U. The C-124 is the largest cargo plane in use in the Far East.

Dispute Over Suez Brings Mid-East Defense Program

Four-Power Proposal Slated For Study By Alexandria Chiefs

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 13 — The United States, Britain, France and Turkey today invited Egypt to join a Middle East defense pact and cleared the way for a settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over Suez.

Egypt's foreign minister, Mohammed Saleh El-Din Pasha, said he will take up the four-power proposal with the inner council of the cabinet as soon as possible.

The council, reportedly said to include the premier, the foreign minister and the ministers of interior and Sudanese affairs, may meet tonght to consider the new Western bid for Egyptian friendship.

But the Egyptian war council also may meet over the weekend, emphasizing the delicate nature of the situation.

Although no details of the proposal have been disclosed, the plan is said to offer Egypt the role of a full partner in defending the canal.

• • •

ACCORDING to unconfirmed reports, the proposal also would include British acceptance of the "principle" of evacuation of British troops and recognition that Egyptian troops will form the core of the new command in the Suez Canal area.

In addition, the United States reportedly promised to arm and equip the Egyptians who, when adequately trained, would move into the canal zone.

An authorized source in London said the plan leaves open the door for participation in the defense pact by Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

A U. S. State Department spokesman in Washington said the offer also would include establishment of the command headquarters in Egypt and an American contribution to the defense of the canal without freezing out Britain.

By making the Anglo-Egyptian dispute a matter of concern for the entire Western world, it is

UN, Reds Trying To Agree On Details For Armistice

TOKYO, Oct. 13—Allied and Red liaison officers agreed today to continue their discussions on proposed resumption of the Korea armistice parley although the Communists made new accusations against the Allies.

A liaison meeting was set for 10 o'clock Sunday (8 p. m. Saturday EST) at Panmunjom, new site for the truce talks.

An Allied liaison team, headed by Col. Don O. Darrow and Lt. Col. jnorman B. Edward, Lt. Col. Norman B. Edward, this morning and agreed on the new liaison meeting.

They also investigated a Communist charge that three Allied planes made two separate strafing runs on the Kaesong neutral zone Friday evening, killing one Korean boy and wounding another.

A dispatch from Panmunjom said that "convincing evidence" was presented by the Communists but pointed out that all witnesses, though agreeing on details, had obviously been "coached" during the night. A preliminary session was held Friday evening with the witnesses and another one this morning.

• • •

COL. CHANG Chun San, chief Red liaison officer, asked that the investigation of the strafing be resumed Sunday and Darrow agreed for the Allies.

At the conclusion of the investigation Darrow would make no comment and said the results would be announced by the UN command.

The Communists charged that three Allied jets strafed an uninhabited area northwest of Kaesong and a few seconds later strafed the Panmunjom-Kaesong road, killing the child.

The Allied liaison team was shown the body of a boy and the bullet which the Reds said killed him.

The new Communist complaint came at a time when hopes of resuming the long-suspended armistice parley were high.

TORONTO, Oct. 13 — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh—who outdrew Santa Claus four to one yesterday — dazzle Toronto for the second day today in a 12-hour round of festivities.

More than a million persons jammed the city and its environs yesterday for a glimpse of the royal couple. Police said it was the largest crowd ever assembled in Toronto, far larger than that which turned out last December to see a Christmas parade featuring Santa Claus.

Allies Gain Along Front

Heartbreak Ridge Reports Conflicting

KOREA, Oct. 13 — Allied troops, mounting a 60,000 - man offensive, punged forward for gains of more than a mile td in Central orea.

But on the western front, a battered American regiment fell back with heavy casualties after a fanatic Chinese Red "human wave" assault.

The Eighth Army reported that the U. S. 24th Division gained more than a mile in the new central front drive.

The communique also said that American Second Division forces with French troops attached, recaptured the northern portion of Heartbreak Ridge on the east-central front.

A front dispatch reported that the American 23rd Regiment used flamethrowers and white phosphorus grenades to burn out remnants of a North Korean suicide battalion on the last peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A captured North Korean captain told questioners:

• • •

"OUR UNIT WAS practically annihilated by United Nations artillery. The North Korean army is practically non-existent."

The North Korean was the executive officer of an enemy battalion and said one unit of 4,000 men suffered 2,000 casualties during the Heartbreak battle, but received only 500 replacements.

The ridge itself was under enemy mortar and artillery fire after Allied troops swept to the crest. UN helicopters were flitting up and down the mountain peaks to pick up wounded.

First Harbingers Of Pumpkin Show In Evidence Now

First harbingers of the 1951 Circleville Pumpkin Show were blossoming out on the city streets Saturday.

Colorful bunting was in evidence in front of many downtown business houses, while workmen were busy stringing extra lights for the coming festival.

And, as usual, the Eager Beaver Club of Pickaway County Children's Home stole the march on other concessionaires.

The Eager Beavers were busy Saturday erecting their food booth at Court and Pinckney streets, ready to begin business Wednesday when the 45th annual Show begins.

Other early signs of the coming street festival also were in evidence, as merchants began redecorating their windows in the Fall harvest themes.

The 45th annual Show will begin officially at noon Wednesday and continue in full force until midnight Saturday.

Revolt Hits Venezuela

Reds Are Tied To Uprising

CARACAS, Oct. 13 — Venezuela's ruling military junta fought today to crush a spreadiig revolt led by followers of the exiled former president, Romulo Gallegos, who was allegedly assisted by Communists.

A government communique, issued shortly before midnight, said the uprising was touched off by a Columbus Day assassination attempt on the lives of the three members of the junta.

The communique for the first time named the Communist Party as a participant in the uprising which reportedly is led by Democratic Action, the party of Gallegos who was overthrown in 1948.

At least four persons were killed and an undisclosed number wounded and arrested in the rebellion which flared principally in Caracas and Sucre province.

• • •

THE GOVERNMENT communique said a bomb was thrown at a procession of cars in which the members of the junta—German Suarez Flamerich, Lt. Col. Marcos Perez Jiminez, and Lt. Col. Luis Felipe Llovera Paez—were riding at a Columbus Day celebration.

Military police reportedly seized the bomb and neutralized it before it could explode, then arrested four persons who were hiding bombs in a car parked along the route of the procession.

In a swift followup, police staged raids on several houses in Caracas, the capital, seizing 100 bombs and arresting eight members of Democratic Action who were armed with pistols and rifles.

GE Plant Here To Be Closed All Next Week

Circleville's General Electric lamp works will be closed all of next week.

Ed Grigg, plant manager, said the shutdown was called to permit an "inventory adjustment."

A spokesman explained this meant that GE, operating on a nationwide scale, is cropping its warehouse stock and that the Circleville plant is taking its share of the reduction.

To accomplish a reduction, output must be curtailed.

Grigg said that as a result of the closure, the public "open house" which had been scheduled during Pumpkin Show, has been postponed. He said the new

Ohio House Deal Is OKd

15 Cities To Get Low-Rent Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Ohio has federal approval to go ahead with new low-rent housing programs.

James T. Eagen, Public Housing Administration commissioner, also said the government will resell to Ohio 40 housing projects owned by PHA and leased by local authorities.

Eagen said the decision means:

1. Fifteen localities in Ohio will be able to proceed immediately with plans for the development of 19,720 low-rent public housing units.
2. Almost immediate reconveyance to eleven local housing authorities of 33 projects comprising 12,295 units.
3. Sale of 11 war housing projects comprising 3,500 units in eight localities for low-rent use.
4. The government may sell to the authorities five Public Works Administration projects comprising 3,156 units in three localities.

As the selling price for these last 16 projects the government will get the operating profit for the next 40 years.

Cities with plans underway are Columbus, Cleveland, Lorain, Warren, Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Mansfield, Portsmouth, Toledo, Dayton, Steubenville, Cincinnati and Hamilton.

The federal government leased present projects to local authorities, but retained ownership after a 1943 ruling by the Ohio supreme court which found such properties were not tax exempt. However, the 1949 legislature passed a law providing exemption in such cases.

Eagen said the PHA acted in Ohio's case after bond counsel advised that public housing bonds issued by Ohio authorities would be valid and as substantial as those of other states.

Congress Hoping To Adjourn Next Week, Go Home

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Congressional leaders feel confident today they can bring the first session of the 82nd Congress to adjournment next Friday or Saturday.

House leaders are even talking about quitting next Thursday, but senators consider this a little too optimistic. One thing is evident—the rush for adjournment is on and travel reservations are the talk of the day.

Leaders concede that two things could dash their plans. A last-minute row could develop in the Senate over the foreign aid appropriations bill, which has yet to come from committee.

Secondly, President Truman could insist on a showdown on the nomination of Philip C. Jes-

House Repair Jobs Urged For This Fall By Experts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Home owners planning to modernize or repair their houses in the next 12 months may save time and money if they start the projects this Fall.

That's the advice of federal housing experts who say the market is favorable in most sections of the nation for home modernization work. Next year the situation may change considerably due to mobilization.

Officials explain that the decline in commercial and residential construction—stemming from the defense program and the normal seasonal drop in building—is freeing larger numbers of skilled workers for other jobs.

Many are finding work in the government's industrial plant expansion program, but others—such as painters and plasterers—are still available for house repair projects.

• • •

MOREOVER, the materials supply situation is generally good at this time. There are no serious difficulties in obtaining most building materials since production controls have not yet had their full impact.

But the current situation on employment and materials is not expected to continue beyond the end of Winter. By early Spring skilled workers will be in great demand and materials will be scarce.

Housing officials also expect a continued higher price trend on second-hand houses, particularly in the group over $15,000. With sharp cutbacks in new housing, buyers naturally will look into the possibility of acquiring an older house.

This demand will exert new pressures generally on the "used" house market. Since the government is not approving construction of luxury houses, owners of homes costing more than $15,000 are expected to ask and receive a higher price on their property.

The National Association of Home Builders is hoping the government will allow construction of 850,000 new homes next year despite demands for fur-

Philly Is Hit By Huge Blaze

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 — A five-alarm fire, fed by thousands of flimsy produce baskets and barrels, swept a block of buildings on Philadelphia's Delaware river waterfront today with damage estimated at nearly $1 million.

Starting shortly before 3 a. m., the blaze raged uncontrolled for more than four hours through some 70 business establishments in 15 structures. Approximately 25 firemen were injured or overcome by the dense smoke, which blanketed the area and was visible for many miles.

Circleville Due To Be Featured In Broadcasts

Come the middle of October and Circleville always edges into the spotlight after a year in oblivion.

Coming up are at least two radio and television shows which will feature the city.

One is a radio broadcast Sunday and another is a Monday morning television broadcast.

The radio program is due at 11 a. m. Sunday over WLW when the program "Melody Trail" is presented.

* * *

THE PROGRAM also features the Logan Elm state park, site of the ancient elm tree near which Chief Logan made his impassioned speech to the whites.

Scheduled for 10 a. m. Monday over WBNS-TV is an all-Circleville program which will be pivoted around the Pumpkin Show theme.

Several local persons will be on the program and the old roundtown's history will be reviewed. Jean Crowe Shea, native of Circleville, is playing a major role in preparation of the script.

Lass, 9, Hurt When Struck By Pickup Truck

A nine-year-old South Washington street girl was injured late Friday when she was struck by a truck near her home.

She was Carolyn Sue Edgington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edgington of 962 South Washington street.

The mishap happened at about 6:15 p. m. Friday on Washington street just north of Walnut street.

The youngster was thrown to the pavement. She suffered a bruised left forehead and bruised left eye in the mishap.

If the present goal remains in effect, NAHB says the biggest amount of home building will take place in the Spring in keeping with the normal seasonal increase in construction.

Under the 850,000 unit plan, the organization says 170,000 homes can be built in the first quarter, 260,000 between April and June, 250,000 between July and September, and 170,000 between October and December.

HOUSING Administrator Raymond M. Foley has acted to speed up construction of new homes in the nation's 41 critical defense areas.

Foley has set aside $200 million for the immediate use of builders operating in critical areas to begin construction projects held up by the shortage of mortgage money.

Under the plan, a builder may obtain an advance commitment from the government that it will buy a mortgage loan even before the loan contract is signed with a bank or lending institution.

The $200 million is in addition to $350 million earmarked last Summer for defense housing operations.

Foley points out, however, that only $105 million out of the new money will be available in critical areas generally. He says this is substantially less than the amount needed for the entire program.

The remaining money was split to provide $25 million worth of disaster housing, $50 million for military construction and $20 million for home-building around atomic energy plants.

To the east of the ridgeline fighting, three Eighth army divisions stepped up their Autumn offensive by jumping off at dawn Saturday on a limited objective offensive south of Kumsong.

The Allied troops moved forward on a 15-mile front. There were no immediate reports on the progress of the drive.

County Man Due To Need 10 Pints Blood Thursday

Pickaway Countians will have an especial incentive to queue up when the Red Cross Bloodmobile calls in Circleville Wednesday.

Countians will have a neighbor in a Columbus hospital who will need ten pints of whole blood on Thursday.

Local Red Cross officials were alerted Saturday to that fact and were told that the countian will undergo delicate surgery in University hospital.

The countian is Elza Brooks, a farmer of the Fox community and a former employe of the John W. Eshelman and Sons mill here.

Brooks will undergo special lung surgery in the Columbus hospital Thursday morning and the Red Cross will furnish the needed ten pints of whole lood.

* * *

THE BLOODMOBILE will be stationed at Circleville Presbyterian church from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Wednesday. Reservations may be made with Red Cross headquarters or with Mrs. Tom Renick.

Meanwhile, countians were taking up the blood program cry of "be a Gapsal."

Gapsal means "Give A Pint, Save A Life."

A Gapsal can be of service to a neighbor (like Brooks) or to a kid over in Korea who is on the battlefield ready to give more than just a pint of glood.

Judge Curtails Driving Rights For Local Man

A Circleville Route 3 man this week lost his rights to drive everything except a truck for the next six months after pleading guilty to drunken driving in Pickaway County common pleas court.

He is Bundy Sowers, 45, a truck driver, arrested last weekend on Route 22 by State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells.

Sowers was taken before Judge William D. Radcliff Thursday on a bill of information presented by Prosecutor Guy Cline. He was fined $10, sentenced to 30 days in jail and lost his driving rights for six months.

However, the jail sentence was suspended and a special allowance was made on the license suspension.

Judge Radcliff suspended all of the man's driving rights for the six month period except for when he operates a concrete-mixer truck for a Circleville firm on the job. As soon as each daily stint is completed, he is ineligible to drive any other vehicle.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. THOMAS DOYLE

Mrs. Bertha Mae Doyle, 62, died Saturday morning in Washington C. H. hospital where she had been a patient since suffering a stroke several days ago.

A resident of New Holland most of her life, she was born in Ross County Aug. 23, 1889, the daughter of Willian and Mary Jane Voss Ater.

She was married to Thomas Doyle who survives along with four daughters, Mrs. Fanny Davy of Brownsville, Mary Jane and Geraldine of the home and Betty of Washington C.H.; five sons, Herbert of El Centro, Calif., James of the home, Richard of New Holland, Jack of Washington C.H., and Gene with the U.S. Army (now enroute home from Korea), and three brothers, Charles Ater of Circleville, Glenn Ater of Chillicothe and Ralph Ater of New Holland.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Church of Christ in New Holland with the Rev. John Tigner officiating. Burial will be in New Holland cemetery, directed by Kirkpatrick and Sons Funeral Home.

Friends may call in the residence after 2 p. m. Sunday.

York Street Kiddies Told To Go To School

York street children were told Saturday they may return to school Monday morning.

The order to return to school was given by City Health Commissioner Clyde Leist after the street was quarantined Thursday because of an illness contracted by a month-old youngster.

"Everything looks like it's cleared up now," Leist said, "and the children may go back to school Monday."

Meanwhile, Connie Darlene Sark, month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sark of York street, was reported in "fairly good" condition Saturday in Children's hospital, Columbus.

The baby earlier this week fell ill due to a communicable disease reportedly related to meningitis, causing the children on the street to be relieved of school work for a day and a half while they were given special medicines—as a precaution.

Friday from a liaison meeting during which security arrangements for the armistice parley were discussed.

An Allied spokesman said that one major problem remained to be settled before the full-dress armistice parley—broken off Aug. 23 by the Reds—could be resumed.

The major problem was described as the extent of the safe zone to be established around the Communist truce delegation camp at Kaesong.

* * *

AGREEMENT WAS already reached on establishment of a neutral area within a 1,000-yard radius of the actual conference site at Panmunjom, six miles east of Kaesong.

This neutral area would be policed by soldiers from both sides, not to exceed 25 in number.

A second point agreed upon was that delegation vehicles traveling between Panmunjom and the respective truce camps would be free from attack.

The neutral zone question and Communist charges of alleged Allied violations caused General Ridgway to propose that the parley be removed from Kaesong.

Corn Picker Catches Fire

Circleville's rural fire truck was called out at about 4:50 p. m. Friday to put out a fire in a corn picker in Wayne Township.

The picker, owned by William Hoffman of Circleville Route 2, caught fire on the Dowden Road in Wayne Township, apparently due to a leaky gasoline tank. Damage was reported negligible.

Patricia Moats To Be Featured By Radio Firm

An 18-year-old Circleville beauty soon is expected to be featured in nationwide television promotions.

She is Miss Patricia Moats, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Moats of 125 Logan street, Circleville's Miss Pumpkin Show in 1949 and Ashville's Miss Fourth of July in 1950.

The Circleville beauty, who has been engaged as a professional model since her graduation by Circleville high school in 1950, was selected from among 18 contestants in Columbus Tuesday night as "Miss Sylvia."

The contest was staged in Columbus Memorial Hall with Bandleader Sammy Kaye as one of the judges.

As "Miss Sylvia," the Circleville model is to be featured in all Sylvania Radio Co. television promotion and advertising. She has been associated with the New York Modeling School in Columbus.

hoped a broadly-based solution may be found.

The new proposal, handed to Saleh El-Din in Alexandria, the "Summer capital," was made less than 24 hours after British foreign Minister Herbert Morrison said Britain would use force, if necessary, to prevent any forcible eviction of "Tommies" from the canal zone.

* * *

DECREES ISSUED earlier in the week by the Egyptian government ordered British troops to leave the vital canal area and pronounced an end to Britain's joint rule with Egypt of the Sudan.

In London, British leaders pinned hopes for settlement of the dispute on a four-power defense pact, but refused to back down on the question of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Britain already has said she will fight rather than be forced out of the Suez Canal area by Egyptian troops.

Circleville Due To Be Featured In Broadcasts

Come the middle of October and Circleville always edges into the spotlight after a year in oblivion.

Coming up are at least two radio and television shows which will feature the city.

One is a radio broadcast Sunday and another is a Monday morning television broadcast.

The radio program is due at 11 a. m. Sunday over WLW when the program "Melody Trail" is presented.

* * *

THE PROGRAM also features the Logan Elm state park, site of the ancient elm tree near which Chief Logan made his impassioned speech to the whites.

Scheduled for 10 a. m. Monday over WBNS-TV is an all-Circleville program which will be pivoted around the Pumpkin Show theme.

Several local persons will be on the program and the old roundtown's history will be reviewed. Jean Crowe Shea, native of Circleville, is playing a major role in preparation of the script.

Friday from a liaison meeting during which security arrangements for the armistice parley were discussed.

An Allied spokesman said that one major problem remained to be settled before the full-dress armistice parley—broken off Aug. 23 by the Reds—could be resumed.

The major problem was described as the extent of the safe zone to be established around the Communist truce delegation camp at Kaesong.

* * *

AGREEMENT WAS already reached on establishment of a neutral area within a 1,000-yard radius of the actual conference site at Panmunjom, six miles east of Kaesong.

This neutral area would be policed by soldiers from both sides, not to exceed 25 in number.

A second point agreed upon was that delegation vehicles traveling between Panmunjom and the respective truce camps would be free from attack.

The neutral zone question and Communist charges of alleged Allied violations caused General Ridgway to propose that the parley be removed from Kaesong.

date for the public inspection of the huge GE plant is Friday, Nov. 2, 2 to 5:30 p. m.

ALONG WITH the shutdown announcement, Grigg said that a scheduled reduction in the production of some electrical parts for other GE plants would force a temporary layoff of some personnel effective Oct. 6.

The local GE chieftain said that the layoff would effect five per cent of the local payroll — about 13 persons. About a month ago, curtailment of one phase of production here necessitated a layoff of about 30 employes.

Patricia Moats To Be Featured By Radio Firm

An 18-year-old Circleville beauty soon is expected to be featured in nationwide television promotions.

She is Miss Patricia Moats, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Moats of 125 Logan street, Circleville's Miss Pumpkin Show in 1949 and Ashville's Miss Fourth of July in 1950.

The Circleville beauty, who has been engaged as a professional model since her graduation by Circleville high school in 1950, was selected from among 18 contestants in Columbus Tuesday night as "Miss Sylvia."

The contest was staged in Columbus Memorial Hall with Bandleader Sammy Kaye as one of the judges.

As "Miss Sylvia," the Circleville model is to be featured in all Sylvania Radio Co. television promotion and advertising. She has been associated with the New York Modeling School in Columbus.

Physical Ed Tutors To Meet

Girls' physical education instructors of Pickaway County's schools are to meet at 4 p. m. Thursday in the county superintendent's office in Pickaway Courthouse.

County Superintendent George D. McDowell said the meeting will be held to discuss organization of the instructors and to begin preliminary talks on a "playday" for the county school girls.

Children's Christian Programs To Be Talked

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13 — Helping children to develop Christian world mindedness despite current international tensions will be discussed in a Children's Work Regional Conference to be held Thursday and Friday in Columbus YWCA.

Miss Doris Stansbury of Granville, chairman of the conference, announced that the following would give major addresses:

Miss Bernice Buehler of Philadelphia, national director of children's work for the Evangelical and Reformed church; Dr. Russell Bayliff of Delaware, sociology professor at Ohio Wesleyan university; and Dr. Richard Gay, also of Delaware, director of religious activities at Ohio Wesleyan. More than 15 others, mostly from Ohio will lead discussion groups, worship services and other activities.

The conference is one of more than 30 being held throughout the nation this year on the theme, "Learning with Children to Live as Christians in One World." It is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches and the National Council of Churches.

The conference will begin at 9 a. m. Thursday with registration. At 10:30, Mrs. Arlene S. Hall of Anderson, Ind., associate editor of children's publications, Church of God, will bring greetings and a statement of purpose. Miss Buehler will then speak on "Our Faith for Living in One World." Rev. J. A. Clark of Columbus, director of religious education for the Ohio Council of Churches, will close the morning session with worship.

At 2 p. m. the conference will reconvene with a period of singing, followed by statement on the "Call to United Christian Youth Action" by Mr. Clark. A filmstrip, "As the Twig Is Bent," will then be shown, and Miss Buehler will give the second main address on, "Christian Nurture for Living in Today's World."

After a brief recess, discussion groups will be held. The following are slated as discussion leaders: Mrs. Hall, Miss Judith French of Painesville, director of religious education, First Congregational church; Mrs. John Heckert, of Youngstown; Mrs. Bryce Nichols and Miss Madelene Johnson, Presbyterian field consultant, both of Cincinnati: Miss Edith Loose, of Dayton, editor of children's publications, Evangelical United Brethren church; Miss Florence Martin, also of Dayton, director of weekday church schools;

Also, Miss Harriet Orth, of Columbus, Episcopal student director, Ohio State university; Miss Elizabeth Snodgrass, of Rio Grande, Baptist area missionary; and Miss Dorothea Wolcott, of Findlay, dean of women, Findlay college and chairman of the 1949 children's regional conference.

The dinner and evening program at 6 p. m. Thursday will feature, "family Christmas around the world festival" with Lynn Rohrbough of Delaware, director of the Cooperative Recreation Service, master of ceremonies.

Delegates will reassemble at 9 a. m. Friday and open with singing. At 9:10 the worship will be led by Miss French of Painesvile. Then Dr. Bayliff will speak on the subject, "Loyalties and Conflicts in the Lives of Children." Discussion groups will continue later in the morning.

At 2 p. m. Friday, "functional" discussion will be held with the following leaders: Dr. Bayliff, in a group for parents; Mrs. Mary Anawalt, of Columbus Broad Street Church of Chirst, for nursery teachers; Mrs. Luther Ballou of Dayton, for kindergarten teachers; Miss Helen Hendershot of Alliance, for primary teachers; and Mrs. A. L. Linder of Youngstown, for the junior group.

The closing address on "Growing as Adults" with worship and dedication will be given by Dr. Gay. The conference will adjourn at 4:30 p. m.

Thank Offering Service Held In Parish House

A casserole luncheon preceded the meeting of Ladies Society of Trinity Lutheran church held Wednesday afternoon in the parish house.

Mrs. Frank Turner, chairman of thank offering, introduced Fred McClean, student pastor, who directed a thank offering service.

It was explained that, "Woman's Missionary Federation hopes to receive enough ingathering of thank-offering gifts to build two mission churches and parsonages, toward the goal of 23 new mission churches in 1951."

Plans were discussed for Ohio district meeting Oct. 24 in Fremont; Mrs. Luther Walters was appointed delegate, Mrs. Denny Pickens, alternate.

A resolution was read in memory of the late Mrs. Julius Helwagen.

Mr. and Mrs. McClean were honored with a fruit shower by 48 members attending the meeting.

'Rally Day' To Be Observed In Calvary EUB

"Rally Day" will be observed Sunday in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

This is the day when a special effort is made to have all of the members of the Sunday school present and to rally all members back once again after the Summer vacations and other activities.

A special "Rally Day" committee has been appointed under the direction of Manley Carothers. This committee has set up attendance goals for each class in the Sunday school and for the Sunday school as a whole.

The Rev. James A. Herbst will preach upon an appropriate subject for the occasion, when, in continuance of the series on the theme "Christ Calls," he will bring a message entitled "Christ Calls Us To Be Loyal".

Special music for the morning will be a vocal duet by the Misses Wilma and June Wilkinson.

7 Local Men To Make Trip

A group of seven Trinity Lutheran church Brotherhood members are to leave Friday for a weekend national convention of Lutheran Brotherhood in Washington D. C.

Delegate from the local organization will be Marion Steinhauser, Brotherhood president.

Others who will accompany him to the convention will be Harold Anderson, Charles Eitel, William Leist, Louis Lockard, Gladden Troutman and the Rev. George Troutman, pastor of the church.

Localite Gets Post On Campus

Don Davis, of 452 North Court street, Circleville, is an officer of Westminster Foundation, the Presbyterian college youth group, on the Ohio university campus.

This student will serve in his office for the current academic year. Westminster Foundation is the organized work of the Presbyterian church on state university campuses. Ohio university's group is one of six in Ohio. Five other churches maintain organized youth groups on the campus.

Worship Theme Is Readied For Presbyterians

General theme of worship services Sunday in Presbyterian church will be "God Speaks To Our Times."

Following this theme, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will preach on the subject: "What Does God Say?" developed from Luke 3:1-17 and Matthew 3:13-17.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Clark Will, is to sing an anthem entitled: "Arise, O Lord."

Organ numbers will include: "An dante," "Nautilus" and "Triumphal March," played by Mrs. Theodore L. Huston.

Hymns will be "Holy, Holy, Holy", "Holy Spirit Truth Divine" and "O Could I Speak The Matchless Worth." New members will be received into Christian Fellowship.

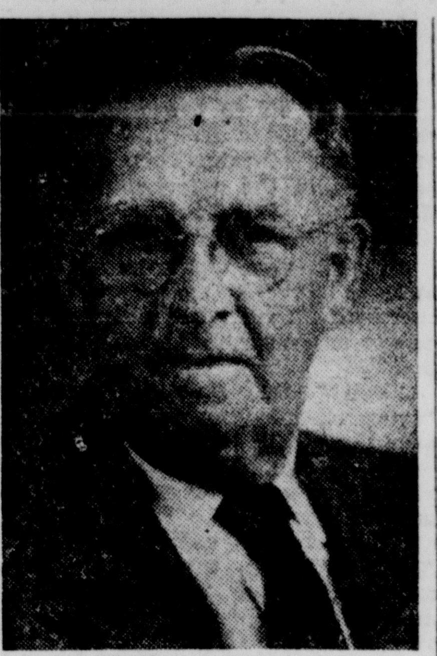
At 9:30 a. m., an hour of Bible study will be held. The Couples Club of the church will meet in the social rooms at 8 p. m.

Methodist Camp Plans To Have 'Open House'

South Side Settlement camp near Sugar Grove is holding open house from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. Sunday. The camp and the settlement, both Methodist supported institutions, are operated to care for under-privileged children of Columbus.

The camp is located ten miles South of Lancaster off Route 33.

Several Woman's Society of Christian Service circles of the First Methodist church of Circleville are furnishing supplies for the settlement, and last Summer a group of women from the First Methodist Society took a load of food to the camp.



ASSOCIATE editor of the "National Prohibitionist," Virgil C. Finnell (above) of Winona Lake, Ind., will speak in Circleville Church of the Brethren at 7:30 p. m. Sunday on the topic: "God Save America."

Worship Series To Begin In 1st EUB Church

In keeping with the EUB denominational theme of "Christ Calls to Commitment," and in accordance with its rally month emphases, "Christ Calls to Commitment. . .To Be More Loyal to the Church," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren church, will introduce a sermon series on "Worship," at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Developing the general theme, "Movements of the Soul When One Worships," from the text in Isaiah 6:1, the clergyman will speak from the topic, "The First Movement. . . .Vision."

Subsequent topics are to be "The Second Movement . . . Confession," "The Third Movement . . .Renewal," "The Fourth Movement . . . . Dedication," "The Fifth Movement . . . Glorify God" and "The Sixth Movement. . .Reality in Living."

Miss Lucille Kirkwood will play "Autumnal Beauty" at the organ as the prelude, after which the Adult Choir will sing the introit and Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will give the call to worship.

Congregation hymns will be "In Thy Name, O Lord, Assembling" and 'Oh, Worship the King."

Miss Kirkwood will play "Hear My Prayer" for the offertory and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beery will furnish a special vocal number.

The church school will study a Bible lesson entitled "Jacob Receives the Promise," from Genesis 28:10-33:17.

Trinity Church Returns To Its Winter Schedule

This Sunday, Trinity Lutheran church will return to its regular Winter schedule. Sunday school will begin at 9 a. m. and worship service will be held at 10:15 a. m.

Sermon theme for this week will be "Paul Longed To Share In Christ's Suffering". This is based on a text from the third chapter of Paul's letter to the Philippians.

Here Paul warns the Philippians against false teachers and expresses the hope that he will be able to share in Christ's suffering and, thus, share in the resurrection.

Senior choir will sing an anthem entitled "Rejoice With Jerusalem" and the choir will lead the congregation in singing "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," "Jesus, Thou Art Mine Forever," "Chief Of Sinners, Though I Be" and "God Of Nations" during the worship service.

Special communion will follow church for those who were unable to attend last week.

Nazarenes Due To Hear Guest Minister

The Rev. Don Carter of Mt. Sterling will be guest minister Sunday in the Circleville Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. Mr. Carter is to substitute during worship service at 10:30 a. m. for the Rev. Doyle Clay, who is directing a two-week evangelistic service in the Parsons Avenue Nazarene church in Columbus.

Sunday school will begin at 9:30 a. m. under the direction of Jack Mumaw. Lesson topic will be "Jacob Receives the Promise."

Young people of the church will meet at 6:45 p. m. with Merle Swank, president of the group, scheduled to present a skit entitled "Conquest Comes to Life."

An evangelistic service will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Bishop Werner Scheduled For 'Church Of Air'

Columbus, Oct. 13—The episcopal leader of Ohio Methodism, Bishop Hazen G. Warner, will be the speaker on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Church of the Air" Sunday, Oct. 14 at 10:30 a. m. (EST).

The broadcast will originate in Chicago, forming part of the program of the National Family Life Conference being staged for more than 4,000 men and women by the Methodist Church at Medinah Temple. Bishop Werner is the general chairman of the Family Life Conference. His broadcast will be, "The American Family and Survival."

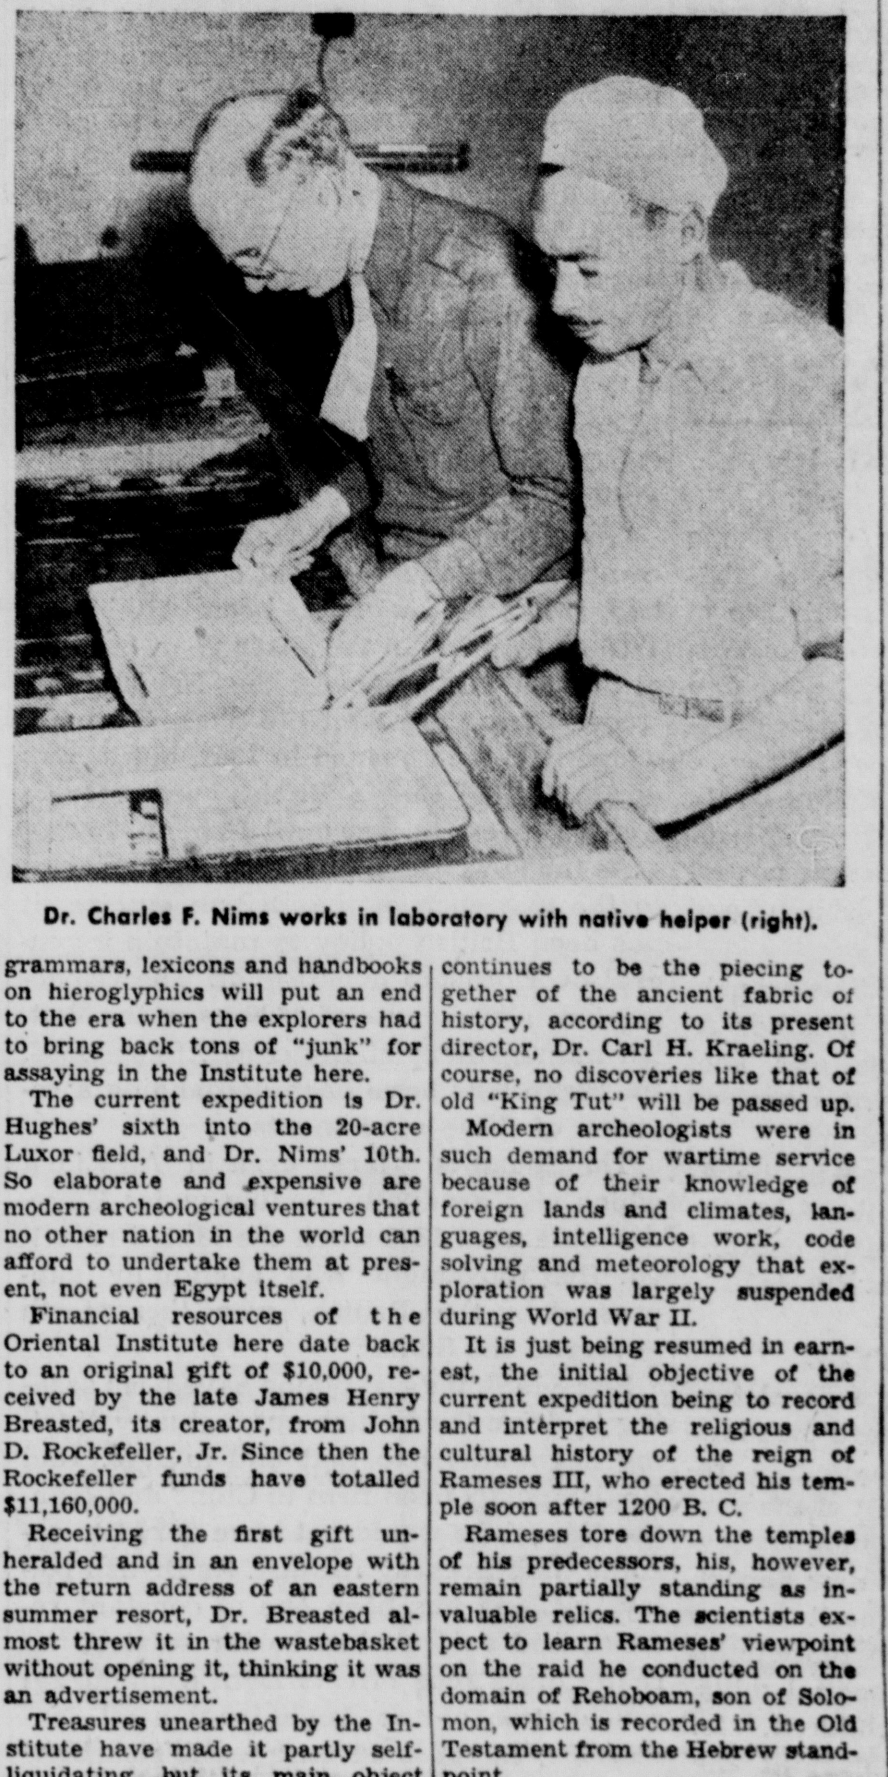
The theme of the conference is "Christian Family Living in Today's World." Every district of the Methodist church in Ohio will be represented at the three day confab which will consider five topics:

1. The Family Living Its Religion; 2. Growing Mature Persons in the Family; 3. The Family Looks to the Church; 4. The Family Living in the Community; and 5. The Family Living in a Troubled World.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, named the "best U. S. Senator of 1952" in a recent poll of the Washington correspondents, will be one of the featured speakers. He will address the conference on "The Importance of the Family and the Individual in a Free and Democratic Society."

ARCHEOLOGISTS SEEK 'OTHER SIDE' OF BIBLE STORIES OF OLD EGYPT

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent



Dr. Charles F. Nims works in laboratory with native helper (right).

CHICAGO—Led by two of the world's greatest explorers for relics of the Egyptian golden age, Drs. George R. Hughes and Charles F. Nims, the 21st expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago is en route to the ancient land of the Nile.

Another fabulous discovery such as the uncovering in 1922 of the treasures of the Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen is not completely discounted, but the current expedition will concentrate mainly on double-checking some of the great Biblical stories.

By deciphering dead languages and using the new methods of measuring age by radioactivity, the orientalists hope to go behind the "iron curtain lowered by the pharaohs, and get "the other side" of the Bible's accounts of the Egyptian conquerors.

Plans of the current group of archeologists indicate how far they have departed from the old pick and shovel brigades which 30 years ago began bringing back priceless relics from the banks of the Nile until the Institute on the shores of Lake Michigan gained rank along with the Egyptian museum in Cairo as a twin stopping point for anyone wanting to see first-hand evidence of the glories of the ancient civilization.

Needing laboratories where they can analyze their findings close to the crumbling ruins, the scientists are heading for their brand new "Chicago House at Luxor."

• • •

THERE, IN the gleaming white compound with complete living quarters for the staff of nine and their families, the archeologists have some of the most modern equipment ever assembled for using radioactive carbon 14, which exists in all living matter, to determine the exact age for objects up to 30,000 years old.

Atomic scientists in the university's Institute for Nuclear Studies worked with the Oriental Institute in perfecting the "atomic clock." The laboratories also will enable the field men to clean their specimens, use chemical reagents to bring out hidden writings, and do extensive photography.

The greatest field library of grammars, lexicons and handbooks on hieroglyphics will put an end to the era when the explorers had to bring back tons of "junk" for assaying in the Institute here.

The current expedition is Dr. Hughes' sixth into the 20-acre Luxor field, and Dr. Nims' 10th. So elaborate and expensive are modern archeological ventures that no other nation in the world can afford to undertake them at present, not even Egypt itself.

Financial resources of the Oriental Institute here date back to an original gift of $10,000, received by the late James Henry Breasted, its creator, from John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Since then the Rockefeller funds have totalled $11,160,000.

Receiving the first gift unheralded and in an envelope with the return address of an eastern summer resort, Dr. Breasted almost threw it in the wastebasket without opening it, thinking it was an advertisement.

Treasures unearthed by the Institute have made it partly self-liquidating, but its main object continues to be the piecing together of the ancient fabric of history, according to its present director, Dr. Carl H. Kraeling. Of course, no discoveries like that of old "King Tut" will be passed up.

Modern archeologists were in such demand for wartime service because of their knowledge of foreign lands and climates, languages, intelligence work, code solving and meteorology that exploration was largely suspended during World War II.

It is just being resumed in earnest, the initial objective of the current expedition being to record and interpret the religious and cultural history of the reign of Rameses III, who erected his temple soon after 1200 B. C.

Rameses tore down the temples of his predecessors, his, however, remain partially standing as invaluable relics. The scientists expect to learn Rameses' viewpoint on the raid he conducted on the domain of Rehoboam, son of Solomon, which is recorded in the Old Testament from the Hebrew standpoint.

New Catholic Pastor To Be Installed Sunday

The Very Rev. Msgr. George O. Mason will be officially installed as pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church at 5 p. m. Sunday. The installing dignitary will be the Right Rev. Msgr. Joseph Casey of Columbus.

Preceding the ceremony in the church, Msgr. Mason will take certain oaths at the rectory pertaining to the office of a priest.

Upon entering the church, the priests attending will gather in the Sacristy and come in to the altar in a body. Msgr. Casey and Msgr. Mason will then go to the foot of the altar and pray to the Holy Ghost for enlightenment, after which they will approach the altar railing.

Msgr. Casey will at this point charge Msgr. Mason with the duties of the pastor, emphasizing the use to be made of the sanctuary, altar, tabernacle, confessional, baptisimal fount, the holy oils to be used in confirmation, etc., and then formally present him with the keys to the church and tabernacle.

They then return to the altar, where Msgr. Mason will make a pledge of allegiance to his office.

The service will close with Msgr. Casey reminding the parishioners of their duties to their church and their pastor, following with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

Visiting clergy who will be present at the installation will include Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph McGlynn, Very Rev. Msgr. Matthew Howard, Most Rev. Bishop Edw. G. Hettinger, Rev. Edw. J. Reidy, Rev. Julius Klinec, Rev. John Eyerman, Rev. Joseph Hakel, Rev. Otto Guenther, Rev. Raphael Rogers, Rev. Francis Kreuskamp, Rev. Peter McEwan, Rev. Ambrose Freund, Rev. Patrick Griffin, Rev. Francis Connor, Rev. Julian Schaefer, Rev. Edmund B. McCormick and Rev. John Soltis.

A reception in honor of Msgr. Mason will be held in the recreation center from 2:30 p. m. until 4:30 p. m. for the members of the congregation, after which they will attend the installation services.

Mrs. John Riley and Miss Rose Good are cochairmen of the tea and are to be assisted by Miss Regina Thornton, Mrs. Willis Green, Mrs. James I. Smith, Mrs. Margaret Shadley, Mrs. Forrest Short, Mrs. J. C. Rader, Mrs. Mary Crum, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Joseph Good, Mrs. James Henderson and Mrs. Joseph Goeller.

Presiding at the tea table in the first hour will be Mrs. Aimee Landis and Mrs. Jacob Carle. Mrs. William Goeller and Mrs. John J. Carle will preside during the final hour.

All members of the parish are being invited to attend both the reception and the installation services.

Methodist Rites Are Announced

"The Changed Man" will be the sermon topic to be delivered Sunday in First Methodist church by the Rev. Robert Weaver.

The sermon, dealing with the life of St. Paul, tells of the change of attitude he underwent which enabled him to become the founder of the early church.

Methodist choir will sing an anthem entitled "Bless The Lord," directed by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, and Mrs. Ervin Leist will play organ selections entitled "Contemplation," "Song Without Words" and "Our Father Which Art in Heaven."

A special "Rally Day" committee has been appointed under the direction of Manley Carothers. This committee has set up attendance goals for each class in the Sunday school and for the Sunday school as a whole.

The Rev. James A. Herbst will preach upon an appropriate subject for the occasion, when, in continuance of the series on the theme "Christ Calls," he will bring a message entitled "Christ Calls Us To Be Loyal".

Special music for the morning will be a vocal duet by the Misses Wilma and June Wilkinson.

7 Local Men To Make Trip

A group of seven Trinity Lutheran church Brotherhood members are to leave Friday for a weekend national convention of Lutheran Brotherhood in Washington D. C.

Delegate from the local organization will be Marion Steinhauser, Brotherhood president.

Others who will accompany him to the convention will be Harold Anderson, Charles Eitel, William Leist, Louis Lockard, Gladden Troutman and the Rev. George Troutman, pastor of the church.

Localite Gets Post On Campus

Don Davis, of 452 North Court street, Circleville, is an officer of Westminster Foundation, the Presbyterian college youth group, on the Ohio university campus.

This student will serve in his office for the current academic year. Westminster Foundation is the organized work of the Presbyterian church on state university campuses. Ohio university's group is one of six in Ohio. Five other churches maintain organized youth groups on the campus.

Worship Theme Is Readied For Presbyterians

General theme of worship services Sunday in Presbyterian church will be "God Speaks To Our Times."

Following this theme, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will preach on the subject: "What Does God Say?" developed from Luke 3:1-17 and Matthew 3:13-17.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Clark Will, is to sing an anthem entitled: "Arise, O Lord."

Organ numbers will include: "An dante," "Nautilus" and "Triumphal March," played by Mrs. Theodore L. Huston.

Hymns will be "Holy, Holy, Holy", "Holy Spirit Truth Divine" and "O Could I Speak The Matchless Worth." New members will be received into Christian Fellowship.

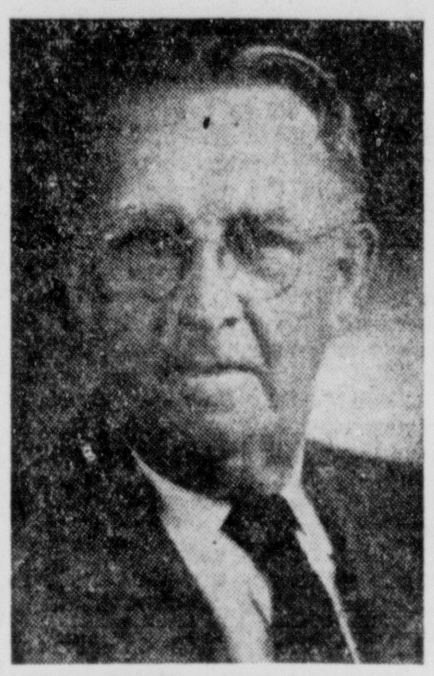
At 9:30 a. m., an hour of Bible study will be held. The Couples Club of the church will meet in the social rooms at 8 p. m.

Methodist Camp Plans To Have 'Open House'

South Side Settlement camp near Sugar Grove is holding open house from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. Sunday. The camp and the settlement, both Methodist supported institutions, are operated to care for under-privileged children of Columbus.

The camp is located ten miles South of Lancaster off Route 33.

Several Woman's Society of Christian Service circles of the First Methodist church of Circleville are furnishing supplies for the settlement, and last Summer a group of women from the First Methodist Society took a load of food to the camp.



ASSOCIATE editor of the "National Prohibitionist," Virgil C. Finnell (above) of Winona Lake, Ind., will speak in Circleville Church of the Brethren at 7:30 p. m. Sunday on the topic: "God Save America."

Worship Series To Begin In 1st EUB Church

In keeping with the EUB denominational theme of "Christ Calls to Commitment," and in accordance with its rally month emphases, "Christ Calls to Commitment. . .To Be More Loyal to the Church," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren church, will introduce a sermon series on "Worship," at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Developing the general theme, "Movements of the Soul When One Worships," from the text in Isaiah 6:1, the clergyman will speak from the topic, "The First Movement. . . .Vision."

Subsequent topics are to be "The Second Movement . . . Confession," "The Third Movement . . .Renewal," "The Fourth Movement . . . . Dedication," "The Fifth Movement . . . Glorify God" and "The Sixth Movement. . .Reality in Living."

Miss Lucille Kirkwood will play "Autumnal Beauty" at the organ as the prelude, after which the Adult Choir will sing the introit and Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will give the call to worship.

Congregation hymns will be "In Thy Name, O Lord, Assembling" and 'Oh, Worship the King."

Miss Kirkwood will play "Hear My Prayer" for the offertory and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beery will furnish a special vocal number.

The church school will study a Bible lesson entitled "Jacob Receives the Promise," from Genesis 28:10-33:17.

Trinity Church Returns To Its Winter Schedule

This Sunday, Trinity Lutheran church will return to its regular Winter schedule. Sunday school will begin at 9 a. m. and worship service will be held at 10:15 a. m.

Sermon theme for this week will be "Paul Longed To Share In Christ's Suffering". This is based on a text from the third chapter of Paul's letter to the Philippians.

Here Paul warns the Philippians against false teachers and expresses the hope that he will be able to share in Christ's suffering and, thus, share in the resurrection.

Senior choir will sing an anthem entitled "Rejoice With Jerusalem" and the choir will lead the congregation in singing "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," "Jesus, Thou Art Mine Forever," "Chief Of Sinners, Though I Be" and "God Of Nations" during the worship service.

Special communion will follow church for those who were unable to attend last week.

Nazarenes Due To Hear Guest Minister

The Rev. Don Carter of Mt. Sterling will be guest minister Sunday in the Circleville Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. Mr. Carter is to substitute during worship service at 10:30 a. m. for the Rev. Doyle Clay, who is directing a two-week evangelistic service in the Parsons Avenue Nazarene church in Columbus.

Sunday school will begin at 9:30 a. m. under the direction of Jack Mumaw. Lesson topic will be "Jacob Receives the Promise."

Young people of the church will meet at 6:45 p. m. with Merle Swank, president of the group, scheduled to present a skit entitled "Conquest Comes to Life."

An evangelistic service will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Bishop Werner Scheduled For 'Church Of Air'

Columbus, Oct. 13—The episcopal leader of Ohio Methodism, Bishop Hazen G. Warner, will be the speaker on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Church of the Air" Sunday, Oct. 14 at 10:30 a. m. (EST).

The broadcast will originate in Chicago, forming part of the program of the National Family Life Conference being staged for more than 4,000 men and women by the Methodist Church at Medinah Temple. Bishop Werner is the general chairman of the Family Life Conference. His broadcast will be, "The American Family and Survival."

The theme of the conference is "Christian Family Living in Today's World." Every district of the Methodist church in Ohio will be represented at the three day confab which will consider five topics:

1. The Family Living Its Religion; 2. Growing Mature Persons in the Family; 3. The Family Looks to the Church; 4. The Family Living in the Community; and 5. The Family Living in a Troubled World.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, named the "best U. S. Senator of 1952" in a recent poll of the Washington correspondents, will be one of the featured speakers. He will address the conference on "The Importance of the Family and the Individual in a Free and Democratic Society."

ARCHEOLOGISTS SEEK 'OTHER SIDE' OF BIBLE STORIES OF OLD EGYPT

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO—Led by two of the world's greatest explorers for relics of the Egyptian golden age, Drs. George R. Hughes and Charles F. Nims, the 21st expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago is en route to the ancient land of the Nile.

Another fabulous discovery such as the uncovering in 1922 of the treasures of the Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen is not completely discounted, but the current expedition will concentrate mainly on double-checking some of the great Biblical stories.

By deciphering dead languages and using the new methods of measuring age by radioactivity, the orientalists hope to go behind the "iron curtain lowered by the pharaohs, and get "the other side" of the Bible's accounts of the Egyptian conquerors.

Plans of the current group of archeologists indicate how far they have departed from the old pick and shovel brigades which 30 years ago began bringing back priceless relics from the banks of the Nile until the Institute on the shores of Lake Michigan gained rank along with the Egyptian museum in Cairo as a twin stopping point for anyone wanting to see first-hand evidence of the glories of the ancient civilization.

Needing laboratories where they can analyze their findings close to the crumbling ruins, the scientists are heading for their brand new "Chicago House at Luxor."

* * *

THERE, IN the gleaming white compound with complete living quarters for the staff of nine and their families, the archeologists have some of the most modern equipment ever assembled for using radioactive carbon 14, which exists in all living matter, to determine the exact age for objects up to 30,000 years old.

Atomic scientists in the university's Institute for Nuclear Studies worked with the Oriental Institute in perfecting the "atomic clock." The laboratories also will enable the field men to clean their specimens, use chemical reagents to bring out hidden writings, and do extensive photography.

The greatest field library of grammars, lexicons and handbooks on hieroglyphics will put an end to the era when the explorers had to bring back tons of "junk" for assaying in the Institute here.

Dr. Charles F. Nims works in laboratory with native helper (right).

The current expedition is Dr. Hughes' sixth into the 20-acre Luxor field, and Dr. Nims' 10th. So elaborate and expensive are modern archeological ventures that no other nation in the world can afford to undertake them at present, not even Egypt itself.

Financial resources of the Oriental Institute here date back to an original gift of $10,000, received by the late James Henry Breasted, its creator, from John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Since then the Rockefeller funds have totalled $11,160,000.

Receiving the first gift unheralded and in an envelope with the return address of an eastern summer resort, Dr. Breasted almost threw it in the wastebasket without opening it, thinking it was an advertisement.

Treasures unearthed by the Institute have made it partly self-liquidating, but its main object continues to be the piecing together of the ancient fabric of history, according to its present director, Dr. Carl H. Kraeling. Of course, no discoveries like that of old "King Tut" will be passed up.

Modern archeologists were in such demand for wartime service because of their knowledge of foreign lands and climates, languages, intelligence work, code solving and meteorology that exploration was largely suspended during World War II.

It is just being resumed in earnest, the initial objective of the current expedition being to record and interpret the religious and cultural history of the reign of Rameses III, who erected his temple soon after 1200 B. C.

Rameses tore down the temples of his predecessors, his, however, remain partially standing as invaluable relics. The scientists expect to learn Rameses' viewpoint on the raid he conducted on the domain of Rehoboam, son of Solomon, which is recorded in the Old Testament from the Hebrew standpoint.

New Catholic Pastor To Be Installed Sunday

The Very Rev. Msgr. George O. Mason will be officially installed as pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church at 5 p. m. Sunday. The installing dignitary will be the Right Rev. Msgr. Joseph Casey of Columbus.

Preceding the ceremony in the church, Msgr. Mason will take certain oaths at the rectory pertaining to the office of a priest.

Upon entering the church, the priests attending will gather in the Sacristy and come in to the altar in a body. Msgr. Casey and Msgr. Mason will then go to the foot of the altar and pray to the Holy Ghost for enlightenment, after which they will approach the altar railing.

Msgr. Casey will at this point charge Msgr. Mason with the duties of the pastor, emphasizing the use to be made of the sanctuary, altar, tabernacle, confessional, baptisimal fount, the holy oils to be used in confirmation, etc., and then formally present him with the keys to the church and tabernacle.

They then return to the altar, where Msgr. Mason will make a pledge of allegiance to his office.

The service will close with Msgr. Casey reminding the parishioners of their duties to their church and their pastor, following with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

Visiting clergy who will be present at the installation will include Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph McGlynn, Very Rev. Msgr. Matthew Howard, Most Rev. Bishop Edw. G. Hettinger, Rev. Edw. J. Reidy, Rev. Julius Klinec, Rev. John Eyerman, Rev. Joseph Hakel, Rev. Otto Guenther, Rev. Raphael Rogers, Rev. Francis Kreuskamp, Rev. Peter McEwan, Rev. Ambrose Freund, Rev. Patrick Griffin, Rev. Francis Connor, Rev. Julian Schaefer, Rev. Edmund B. McCormick and Rev. John Soltis.

A reception in honor of Msgr. Mason will be held in the recreation center from 2:30 p. m. until 4:30 p. m. for the members of the congregation, after which they will attend the installation services.

Mrs. John Riley and Miss Rose Good are cochairmen of the tea and are to be assisted by Miss Regina Thornton, Mrs. Willis Green, Mrs. James I. Smith, Mrs. Margaret Shadley, Mrs. Forrest Short, Mrs. J. C. Rader, Mrs. Mary Crum, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Joseph Good, Mrs. James Henderson and Mrs. Joseph Goeller.

Presiding at the tea table in the first hour will be Mrs. Aimee Landis and Mrs. Jacob Carle. Mrs. William Goeller and Mrs. John J. Carle will preside during the final hour.

All members of the parish are being invited to attend both the reception and the installation services.

Methodist Rites Are Announced

"The Changed Man" will be the sermon topic to be delivered Sunday in First Methodist church by the Rev. Robert Weaver.

The sermon, dealing with the life of St. Paul, tells of the change of attitude he underwent which enabled him to become the founder of the early church.

Methodist choir will sing an anthem entitled "Bless The Lord," directed by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, and Mrs. Ervin Leist will play organ selections entitled "Contemplation," "Song Without Words" and "Our Father Which Art in Heaven."

THAT A-BOMB LEAD

ATOM bomb information is hard to get, but many writers are trying to make some educated guesses. One such guess is that the Russians have between a minimum of 25 and a maximum of 50 bombs. This guesser says Soviet bombs may be two and one-half times as destructive as those dropped on Japan in 1945.

The guessers think perhaps the U. S. stockpile may be between 800 and 1,000 bombs, which may be six times as powerful as those dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

But from the big bomb the U.S. is branching out in several directions. Whether A-bombs fired as artillery shells and shot long distances as guided missiles are on the way can only be speculated upon.

This country retains an edge in the A-bomb race, but when and if the A-bombs start dropping, there will be little comfort for anybody either here or in Russia.

TAXATION, NEW STYLE

THE effects of confiscatory federal taxation have become so pronounced that lawmakers are constantly attempting to relieve the pressure on a segment of the population that, they feel, is being unfairly levied upon. This is, of course, a new departure in American taxation. But it is now deemed necessary to go slightly more lightly on those who have had hospital bills, who are married and have children, etc.

The latest suggestion is to exempt the profit a home owner makes by selling his house from federal levies, if the seller reinvests the money in another home within a year. Whether this idea will stick remains to be seen, but it is in line with congressional tax thinking. Take all they have, above what they will need for food to carry on and produce more taxes.

NOT FAR ENOUGH

SEN. Walter F. George of Georgia says the new tax bill is the last one he will back unless there is an all-out war.

"The truth is," Senator George adds, "that by 1953 or 1954 we must give consideration to reducing even the present tax rates. They are too high. The administration will see by that time just what these rates are."

The George pledge to oppose further increases in federal taxes short of war is fine so far as it goes. But he should have said short of inflation, too.

As long as inflation continues, taxes will continue to be increased time and again. Government spending will increase, pay hikes for government payrollers will be voted, and revenue from taxes shockingly high will fall far short of balancing the budget.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The rejection of the British by Iran and Egypt is not unrelated to the position the British have adopted toward China. A political and economic empire can only maintain itself by proud might. When an empire even gives an appearance of fear and cowardice, the peripheral areas will rebel; allies will look to their own interests; subject nations will bare their teeth.

The British empire was created by force and trade penetration. It consisted not only of colonies, seized, occupied and governed, but of contractual relationships with physically weak and economically backward countries. In Iran, the British once enjoyed a sphere of influence as did Russia. That had been reduced to an economic contract concerning the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., which has now been altered by nationalization.

Great Britain's relationship to Egypt is complex. The most ancient country, Egypt had, from 1517 to 1882, been within the Turkish empire. In the latter year, because of internal disturbances, the British sent troops there to protect the Suez Canal, which had been opened in 1869, but it was not until 1914 that a British protectorate was declared, to last until Feb. 28, 1922.

As the Suez Canal has been so important to the existence of the British empire, it has been British policy to maintain a general overlordship over Egypt. The Condominium agreements of 1899 gave the British management of the canal. Since 1936, the Egyptians have been demanding a revision of these agreements.

The Sudan is a large area in Africa which was gradually coming under Egyptian rule until 1883 when the Mahdi revolted. His movement was eventually suppressed by the British, who thenceforth governed the Sudan.

Since 1936, the Egyptians have been seeking to drive the British out, actually starting negotiations to that end in 1945. Had British policy been firm in China and Iran, the Egyptians would not have dared to assume their present attitude. As British policy in China has been one of constant retreat, and as Iran has so far suffered no really disastrous effects from a unilateral cancellation of the Anglo-Iranian oil concessions, Egypt is encouraged to risk Britain's anger. Unfortunately, the United States is included in that anger.

In the United Nations, Egypt has insisted that the troops of one nation have no right to be on the territory of another nation except by invitation. As British troops guard the Suez Canal and are in the Sudan by treaty, Egypt, to maintain her attitude, now seeks to abrogate the treaty.

Both Great Britain and the United States have had ample warning of dissatisfaction and trouble in Egypt and the Sudan. Unfortunately, the American policy is geared to support Great Britain in all countries where British interests had prevailed prior to World War II. This policy, however, brings us in conflict with countries which seek to free themselves from contractual relations with Great Britain. The Egyptian foreign minister, Salah El Din Pasha, made Egypt's position clear last July when he said:

"Push Button" Warfare In Drawing Board Stage

Secretary Lovett Warns Against Defense Let-Down

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Robert Lovett is more than a little worried over the possibility that misinterpreted information about the "push button" warfare of the future will cause a letdown in defense preparations.

Significantly, Lovett utilized his first news conference after being appointed to succeed Secretary George C. Marshall to declare that "a guided missile on the drawing board or at the proving ground can't win" a battle in Korea tomorrow.

Secretary Robert Lovett

Department aides report that Lovett and the "top brass" of the military services are particularly worried about sensational statements concerning atomic artillery shells and guided missiles.

They want Mr and Mrs. John Q. Public to understand that the massed men and equipment of conventional warfare still are the basic materials of national defense.

In reply to reports that highly developed guided missiles are "just around the corner," Lovett has emphasized to newsmen that "for some time to come" airplanes will continue to be the most efficient means of delivering atomic explosives.

● HOPE FOR OATIS—State department officials say privately there is still hope for the release of American newsman William Oatis from the Czech prison where he is being held on trumped-up spy charges.

These officials point to the deal between the United States and Hungary which gained freedom for Robert Vogeler, American businessman who was jailed by Hungarian Reds on similar charges.

They see a possibility of a similar agreement with the Czech Communists to secure the freedom of Oatis. Negotiations are under way, although progress appears to be non-existent.

In these dealings, the United States has one big point in its favor. That is the increasingly tight economic blockade being imposed on Czechoslovakia.

It is believed that soon the Czechs will feel the pinch of this blockade sufficiently to be willing to talk business on the Oatis case. The Czech ambassador already has hinted as much, but apparently he is not yet ready to take any concrete step.

● PENTAGON CRISIS!—The Pentagon has a new problem. It's how to walk in that giant building without falling.

Tumbles in those miles of corridors appear to be quite a hazard, and the Defense department has put out a special memorandum on the subject.

Among other things, it recommends: "Face in the direction you are walking; don't read while walking; avoid horseplay; wear a practical type shoe."

The department says it is doing its best to prevent slippery floors. It revealed solemnly that the floors are being tested by a "Sigler pendulum impact-type slipperiness tester" which "determines the coefficient of friction, which is an index of relative slipperiness."

● POLITICS AS USUAL—Even more partisan politics than meets the eye is involved in the fight over "the terrible Capehart amendment" to the new controls law.

A small Republican bloc suspects that the administration is making political hay with its attack on the Capehart amendment, so the GOP group is playing some counter politics.

Politics Affects Controls

President Truman has labeled the amendment "terrible" and has declared that it opens the door to thousands of price increases besides being administratively impossible.

The Republicans say that the administration foresees a price softening in the near future and wants to knock out the amendment so it can claim full credit for holding prices down or reducing them.

They feel that price control officials would be left out on a limb if prices of staples decline in the face of Mr. Truman's prediction that they would rise if the Capehart provision remains on the books.

So, the strategy of the Republican group is to delay action on the amendment until the price drops they expect to take place. Then, they say, they will be in a perfect position to challenge President Truman to defend his criticisms.

Artificial Kidney, A Device That Helps Save Many Lives

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE kidneys are essential to life, their function being the removal of waste products from the body. When they become incapacitated for even a short period, waste products rapidly pile up in the body and, if the condition is not speedily relieved, it results first in toxemia and then in death.

It is for this reason that the so-called artificial kidney has been hailed as a life-saving device.

Unable to Function

In many instances, the kidney becomes temporarily unable to function. While doctors know that, given time, the kidneys can be restored, nevertheless they have been helpless because they had no means of tiding the patient over the short period of kidney failure. Today, such patients may be tided through an emergency by the use of the artificial kidney to reduce the waste products in the blood.

There are many conditions in which the apparatus is effective. Often, with the occurrence of stones in both kidneys, the kidneys are not able to function properly. Until the blockage of the kidney by the stones can be alleviated, the use of an artifical kidney will save a life in many instances.

Temporary Incapacity

Temporary kidney incapacity, due to chemical poisons, blood transfusions, toxicity due to sulfonamide drugs, pregnancy toxemia, severe burns, crush injuries, or surgical injuries to the kidney and other parts of the urinary tract, may be properly aided by the use of the artificial kidney.

An apparatus that is compact and very efficient has been devised. This machine uses cellophane sheets to do the work of the kidney.

Waste Products Removed

A tube is connected to a vein in the body, and the blood is allowed to run through the machine so that the waste products may be removed by the cellophane sheets. The blood is then allowed to flow back into the body. There is little discomfort to the patient.

The blood has to be kept from clotting outside the body. This is done by the administration of the substance known as heparin.

It is believed that the lives of those with temporary kidney failure can be saved by the use of this new apparatus.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. F.: What is shingles and can it be cured?

Answer: Shingles is an inflammation of the skin in which there are groups of blisters distributed along the course of one or more of the nerves in the skin. The cause in the greatest number of cases is probably an infection.

The condition occurs most frequently during cold, damp weather in people whose resistance has been lowered by overwork or disease. The appearance of blisters is preceded by pain in the affected regions.

In the treatment, a number of methods are employed. These consist chiefly of keeping the rash covered with antiseptic dusting powders, or coating the blisters with paraffin in the same way it is used on burns.

Injections of vitamin B-1 have been utilized. Such drugs as the salicylates may be used to relieve the pain. Injections of pituitary extract have also been employed. Aureomycin has recently been found helpful in some cases. Of course, the condition should be treated under the care of a physician.

Frequently, there is a neuralgic pain for a long time following an attack of shingles in the area which was affected by the disorder. In such cases, treatment with pituitary extract might be of some help.

Just how long an attack of shingles will last cannot be definitely stated. In some instances, the attacks clear up within several weeks.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

A LITTLE noise at the back of the Fowler house made Sue look sharply at Eden. They both stood motionless, waiting. Then a figure appeared in the outer dimness of the hall.

Sue exploded, "Well?"

Ellen Fowler moved hesitantly into the light. She looked confused, startled, disarranged. She looked dowdy and dirty, Eden was thinking.

"Well?" Sue barked again, "we've been having you paged all over this state, Ellen. You'd better call a taxi and hurry to the hospital or you might not see your mother alive."

Eden cried compassionately, "Oh, Sue," seeing the girl's drained and terrified face. "Your mother is much worse, Ellen. They took her away at seven o'clock. Run up and smooth your hair, and I'll go to the hospital with you."

Ellen stood stunned. "But why did they take her away?" she said awkwardly.

"They took her away in a coma," snapped Sue. "You had mighty little consideration for your father, disappearing like this when they are in such trouble."

"But he . . . but Papa . . ." Ellen still looked vague, puzzled.

"He had no idea where you were." Sue was ruthless. "Eden and I have been stalling off your friends for hours, telling them you were upstairs utterly prostrated."

Eden urged, "Hurry, Ellen! I'll call a taxi."

Ellen turned gropingly toward the stairs.

As she passed out of sight Sue let out an indignant snort. "Did you see that? A raincoat—and she was carrying a cushion!"

"Let's not discuss it, Sue," Eden pleaded. "I'll go with her — and then I'll go home. It's almost 11 o'clock."

In Ellen's room a few touches of brightness relieved the heaviness that invested the rest of the house. Ellen was sitting on the edge of the bed in a sort of stunned numbness. Eden stopped at the door and said kindly, "You'd better hurry, my dear."

Ellen nodded, got up, swaying a little as though she were very tired. "I won't change my dress. I'll just put on another coat," she said dully. "This one got dusty. They never sweep the seats over there—"

"Were you at a football game? Were they playing today?"

"Oh, no—just practice. I got cold sitting there, and he didn't come back. They had to leave for Louisiana tonight and he'd forgotten to tell me. Sometimes we go and get hamburgers and coffee, and then we ride the bus. I rode on the bus alone tonight. I can think on the bus. I was trying to make up my mind."

"Your father was so worried," Eden suggested. She waited while Ellen brushed her hair.

"But he knows where I go," Ellen protested. "He can't help me any, but he understands."

"Being a parent can be a sort of heartbreak, Ellen," Eden said.

"Papa knows how terribly I love Tony." Ellen startled the other woman with stark frankness. "And of course it's really no use at all. I know it's no use—but I have to go."

"And does it help—riding on the bus? Does he want to marry you?"

"Oh, no, Tony doesn't want to marry at all — not for years, he says. And I know it but I can't seem to stop. We don't always ride on the bus," she admitted with the same bleak candor.

Eden felt a wave of sick fury. What was Mac Fowler thinking of, not to take better care of his daughter?

"We'd better go," she said stiffly. "Your mother is a very sick woman. You must think about her now."

"Oh, I do!" It was almost a moan. "But it's all so hopeless!" Ellen's face was wooden, her movements lurching and mechanical as she went down the stairs ahead of Eden.

Sue had her hat and cape on and stood waiting. "I locked everything," she said.

"We won't trouble you, Sue. It's late. We'll take the taxi."

"I won't come in," Eden said at the hospital entrance. "Telephone me, Ellen, if there is anything I can do to help."

Ellen nodded dully and mounted the long flight of steps.

The driver was uncertain of the route and she had to direct him. "Turn here, lady?" he asked.

"Yes, turn here." Then she caught her breath. They were passing Laura's apartment, and on the second floor a light showed in Laura's window. She noted the light only briefly because she was looking at the car parked by the curb, Harrison's car.

• • •

Laura drew her gloves through her hands over and over. She was perched on the arm of a chair in Eden's bedroom, her toes barely touching the floor, her eyes wide and with a small hot flame of anger and confusion burning in them.

"Of course there's no use telling you that you're being absurd about this whole thing," she said impatiently. "You've got your mind made up and you're convinced that you're betrayed and have a grievance. I've told you that Harrison came to my apartment last night all shot to pieces. I don't know what had happened. I didn't inquire."

Eden went on folding garments, her face averted, her shoulders hostile. "I'm not taking any legal action, Laura," she said coldly. "I'm not setting Harrison free so he can turn to you for consolation. You needn't be uneasy for fear I'll name you."

"Oh, tripe!" snapped Laura disgustedly. "I think this whole business is simply an excuse for you, Eden. You've been waiting all along for something to happen that you could distort into justification for doing what you've had in your mind all along to do. You wanted an escape, because you're too selfish and cowardly to stick to Harrison when he's in deep trouble."

Eden turned a livid face. "I suppose you're going to stand there, Laura, and go on pretending you don't know that Harrison has been in love with you for a long time. I was too blind to see it at first, but my eyes were opened."

Laura's eyes blazed. The blood of Black Pete Gallagher had not all been lost when red Carolina soil covered him. "That's about as rotten a lie as anyone could invent!" she flared, "You're not only lying to me, you're lying to yourself, Eden Blayde. You let your husband down when he needed encouragement, and now you're trying to purge your soul by shifting the blame to me."

"I really don't blame you," Eden declared with no apparent emotion. "Harrison is an attractive person in his way. He has proved that beyond a certain adolescent sort of limit he hasn't any outstanding capabilities, but he does have an appealing charm."

Laura got up and walked to the door. There was a taut vibrancy about her small body that made her look a little like a jetty bee. Her blue eyes blazed.

"In my opinion, Harrison blundered into his troubles by straining every nerve and exploiting every possibility to give you far more than you're worth! I suppose you know he may stand to lose his business—or at least control of it. Personally I don't trust Ramsay Iglehart an inch."

"How nice he had you to confide in!" Eden remarked. "I wouldn't know about Harrison's troubles—not any more. He not only has lost all apparent interest in me or in my welfare and happiness but he has stopped telling me anything whatever."

"When a man stops telling his wife his troubles it's because he knows she has stopped listening."

"You would, naturally, be an expert on domestic catastrophes of that sort," Eden jibed nastily.

"There's no parallel, as you know quite well. My husband told me that he didn't want me. Harrison needs you. Anne needs you and so does Deke. They need the Eden you used to be — not this frigid thing you've become."

Eden snapped down the lid of a suitcase. "I think we have nothing to discuss, Laura. I'm taking myself out of Harrison's life for a while to give him time and opportunity to decide whether he wants to go on being married to me or not!"

Laura shrugged a shoulder, gave her hat a savage jerk and went swiftly down the sairs.

Try, Stop Me

In Chicago, Fred Gardner, well-known bookman from Scranton, noted a sign on the Hotel Sheraton Plaza bulletin board that read, "Simon and Schuster, Grand Ball Room, 8 p. m." Taking it for granted that he would be welcome at any big publisher's shindig, Gardner presented himself at the appointed hour, and promptly found himself engulfed in a sea of strange faces. A Mr. Simon, it developed, was marrying a Miss Schuster. Neither had the slightest connection with the book business. The Simon clan assumed he was a Schuster guest; the Schusters tabbed him for a Simonite.

Mr. Gardner decided explanations would be too difficult, drank, ate, and danced to his heart's content, and went to bed carolling, "There's no business like book business."

THAT A-BOMB LEAD

ATOM bomb information is hard to get, but many writers are trying to make some educated guesses. One such guess is that the Russians have between a minimum of 25 and a maximum of 50 bombs. This guesser says Soviet bombs may be two and one-half times as destructive as those dropped on Japan in 1945.

The guessers think perhaps the U. S. stockpile may be between 800 and 1,000 bombs, which may be six times as powerful as those dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

But from the big bomb the U.S. is branching out in several directions. Whether A-bombs fired as artillery shells and shot long distances as guided missiles are on the way can only be speculated upon.

This country retains an edge in the A-bomb race, but when and if the A-bombs start dropping, there will be little comfort for anybody either here or in Russia.

TAXATION, NEW STYLE

THE effects of confiscatory federal taxation have become so pronounced that lawmakers are constantly attempting to relieve the pressure on a segment of the population that, they feel, is being unfairly levied upon. This is, of course, a new departure in American taxation. But it is now deemed necessary to go slightly more lightly on those who have had hospital bills, who are married and have children, etc.

The latest suggestion is to exempt the profit a home owner makes by selling his house from federal levies, if the seller reinvests the money in another home within a year. Whether this idea will stick remains to be seen, but it is in line with congressional tax thinking. Take all they have, above what they will need for food to carry on and produce more taxes.

NOT FAR ENOUGH

SEN. Walter F. George of Georgia says the new tax bill is the last one he will back unless there is an all-out war.

"The truth is," Senator George adds, "that by 1953 or 1954 we must give consideration to reducing even the present tax rates. They are too high. The administration will see by that time just what these rates are."

The George pledge to oppose further increases in federal taxes short of war is fine so far as it goes. But he should have said short of inflation, too.

As long as inflation continues, taxes will continue to be increased time and again. Government spending will increase, pay hikes for government payrollers will be voted, and revenue from taxes shockingly high will fall far short of balancing the budget.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The rejection of the British by Iran and Egypt is not unrelated to the position the British have adopted toward China. A political and economic empire can only maintain itself by proud might. When an empire even gives an appearance of fear and cowardice, the peripheral areas will rebel; allies will look to their own interests; subject nations will bare their teeth.

The British empire was created by force and trade penetration. It consisted not only of colonies, seized, occupied and governed, but of contractual relationships with physically weak and economically backward countries. In Iran, the British once enjoyed a sphere of influence as did Russia. That had been reduced to an economic contract concerning the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., which has now been altered by nationalization.

Great Britain's relationship to Egypt is complex. The most ancient country, Egypt had, from 1517 to 1882, been within the Turkish empire. In the latter year, because of internal disturbances, the British sent troops there to protect the Suez Canal, which had been opened in 1869, but it was not until 1914 that a British protectorate was declared, to last until Feb. 28, 1922.

As the Suez Canal has been so important to the existence of the British empire, it has been British policy to maintain a general overlordship over Egypt. The Condominium agreements of 1899 gave the British management of the canal. Since 1936, the Egyptians have been demanding a revision of these agreements.

The Sudan is a large area in Africa which was gradually coming under Egyptian rule until 1883 when the Mahdi revolted. His movement was eventually suppressed by the British, who thenceforth governed the Sudan.

Since 1936, the Egyptians have been seeking to drive the British out, actually starting negotiations to that end in 1945. Had British policy been firm in China and Iran, the Egyptians would not have dared to assume their present attitude. As British policy in China has been one of constant retreat, and as Iran has so far suffered no really disastrous effects from a unilateral cancellation of the Anglo-Iranian oil concessions, Egypt is encouraged to risk Britain's anger. Unfortunately, the United States is included in that anger.

In the United Nations, Egypt has insisted that the troops of one nation have no right to be on the territory of another nation except by invitation. As British troops guard the Suez Canal and are in the Sudan by treaty, Egypt, to maintain her attitude, now seeks to abrogate the treaty.

Both Great Britain and the United States have had ample warning of dissatisfaction and trouble in Egypt and the Sudan. Unfortunately, the American policy is geared to support Great Britain in all countries where British interests had prevailed prior to World War II. This policy, however, brings us in conflict with countries which seek to free themselves from contractual relations with Great Britain. The Egyptian foreign minister, Salah El Din Pasha, made Egypt's position clear last July when he said:

DIET AND HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE kidneys are essential to life, their function being the removal of waste products from the body. When they become incapacitated for even a short period, waste products rapidly pile up in the body and, if the condition is not speedily relieved, it results first in toxemia and then in death.

It is for this reason that the so-called artificial kidney has been hailed as a life-saving device.

Unable to Function

In many instances, the kidney becomes temporarily unable to function. While doctors know that, given time, the kidneys can be restored, nevertheless they have been helpless because they had no means of tiding the patient over the short period of kidney failure. Today, such patients may be tided through an emergency by the use of the artificial kidney to reduce the waste products in the blood.

There are many conditions in which the apparatus is effective. Often, with the occurrence of stones in both kidneys, the kidneys are not able to function properly. Until the blockage of the kidney by the stones can be alleviated, the use of an artifical kidney will save a life in many instances.

Temporary Incapacity

Temporary kidney incapacity, due to chemical poisons, blood transfusions, toxicity due to sulfonamide drugs, pregnancy toxemia, severe burns, crush injuries, or surgical injuries to the kidney and other parts of the urinary tract, may be properly aided by the use of the artificial kidney.

An apparatus that is compact and very efficient has been devised. This machine uses cellophane sheets to do the work of the kidney.

Waste Products Removed

A tube is connected to a vein in the body, and the blood is allowed to run through the machine so that the waste products may be removed by the cellophane sheets. The blood is then allowed to flow back into the body. There is little discomfort to the patient.

The blood has to be kept from clotting outside the body. This is done by the administration of the substance known as heparin.

It is believed that the lives of those with temporary kidney failure can be saved by the use of this new apparatus.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. F.: What is shingles and can it be cured?

Answer: Shingles is an inflammation of the skin in which there are groups of blisters distributed along the course of one or more of the nerves in the skin. The cause in the greatest number of cases is probably an infection.

The condition occurs most frequently during cold, damp weather in people whose resistance has been lowered by overwork or disease. The appearance of blisters is preceded by pain in the affected regions.

In the treatment, a number of methods are employed. These consist chiefly of keeping the rash covered with antiseptic dusting powders, or coating the blisters with paraffin in the same way it is used on burns.

Injections of vitamin B-1 have been utilized. Such drugs as the salicylates may be used to relieve the pain. Injections of pituitary extract have also been employed. Aureomycin has recently been found helpful in some cases. Of course, the condition should be treated under the care of a physician.

Frequently, there is a neuralgic pain for a long time following an attack of shingles in the area which was affected by the disorder. In such cases, treatment with pituitary extract might be of some help.

Just how long an attack of shingles will last cannot be definitely stated. In some instances, the attacks clear up within several weeks.

"Push Button" Warfare In Drawing Board Stage

Secretary Lovett Warns Against Defense Let-Down

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Robert Lovett is more than a little worried over the possibility that misinterpreted information about the "push button" warfare of the future will cause a let-down in defense preparations.

Significantly, Lovett utilized his first news conference after being appointed to succeed Secretary George C. Marshall to declare that "a guided missile on the drawing board or at the proving ground can't win" a battle in Korea tomorrow.

Secretary Robert Lovett

Department aides report that Lovett and the "top brass" of the military services are particularly worried about sensational statements concerning atomic artillery shells and guided missiles.

They want Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public to understand that the massed men and equipment of conventional warfare still are the basic materials of national defense.

In reply to reports that highly developed guided missiles are "just around the corner," Lovett has emphasized to newsmen that "for some time to come" airplanes will continue to be the most efficient means of delivering atomic explosives.

● HOPE FOR OATIS—State department officials say privately there is still hope for the release of American newsman William Oatis from the Czech prison where he is being held on trumped-up spy charges.

These officials point to the deal between the United States and Hungary which gained freedom for Robert Vogeler, American businessman who was jailed by Hungarian Reds on similar charges.

They see a possibility of a similar agreement with the Czech Communists to secure the freedom of Oatis. Negotiations are under way, although progress appears to be non-existent.

In these dealings, the United States has one big point in its favor. That is the increasingly tight economic blockade being imposed on Czechoslovakia.

It is believed that soon the Czechs will feel the pinch of this blockade sufficiently to be willing to talk business on the Oatis case. The Czech ambassador already has hinted as much, but apparently he is not yet ready to take any concrete step.

● PENTAGON CRISIS!—The Pentagon has a new problem. It's how to walk in that giant building without falling.

Tumbles in those miles of corridors appear to be quite a hazard, and the Defense department has put out a special memorandum on the subject.

Among other things, it recommends: "Face in the direction you are walking; don't read while walking; avoid horseplay; wear a practical type shoe."

The department says it is doing its best to prevent slippery floors. It revealed solemnly that the floors are being tested by a "Sigler pendulum impact-type slipperiness tester" which "determines the coefficient of friction, which is an index of relative slipperiness."

* * * *

● POLITICS AS USUAL—Even more partisan politics than meets the eye is involved in the fight over "the terrible Capehart amendment" to the new controls law.

A small Republican bloc suspects that the administration is making political hay with its attack on the Capehart amendment, so the GOP group is playing some counter politics.

Politics Affects Controls

President Truman has labeled the amendment "terrible" and has declared that it opens the door to thousands of price increases besides being administratively impossible.

The Republicans say that the administration foresees a price softening in the near future and wants to knock out the amendment so it can claim full credit for holding prices down or reducing them.

They feel that price control officials would be left out on a limb if prices of staples decline in the face of Mr. Truman's prediction that they would rise if the Capehart provision remains on the books.

So, the strategy of the Republican group is to delay action on the amendment until the price drops they expect to take place. Then, they say, they will be in a perfect position to challenge President Truman to defend his criticisms.

'It's Fun To Enter, Whether You Win Or Not,' Says 1950 Baking Champ

Electric Range Is Grand Prize

Grand prize winner of last three pumpkin pie baking contests were undecided today whether they would enter or not.

But no one will be surprised on Wednesday, if at the last minute the Pumpkin Show spirit moves them to whip up a pie or pies for one or both contests.

Mrs. John Heiskell, winner in 1948, first year of the double event said she would probably enter if "things don't get too complicated at home." And she added, "You never can tell what will happen when you have five children."

Confessing that she mixes her pie filling by guess and taste, Mrs. Heiskell also passed on another tip to the busy housewife who may be baking her entry with one eye on the clock, trying to beat the 11:30 deadline for entries.

She advises mixing flour, salt and shortening ahead of time, having it ready to add the cold water, thus saving time in preparation.

Mrs. Charles Fullen of Northridge Road, winner in 1949, hasn't decided either, but says, "I won't know definitely until the day arrives and I see what all I have to do."

Mrs. Fullen entered both the General Mills and regular Pumpkin pie contests last year and won in both divisions the same day.

Last years' winner, Mrs. S. E. Duvall of Ashville, doesn't think she will enter this year, but she did say, "It was a lot of fun and very exciting." She added, "I enjoyed winning and also helping the Sigma Phi Sorority and I'll surely be interested in knowing who wins the lovely Frigidaire range."

Another winner in one of the daily contests for last year advised women who are rushed for time in the morning to make the pie dough at night, roll and place in pans and crimp the edges, ready for filling. It may be put in the refrigerator overnight along with the already prepared filling.

"Then first thing in the morning, fill the pies and bake. This gives plenty of time for the pies to cool before entering them in the contests," she declared.

"In fact," she added, "I think the pie crust is better if it is chilled before baking."

One of the daily contests is being sponsored by General Mills Inc., and requires entrants to use Betty Crocker Crustquick and either Mozart or Country Colonel canned pumpkin. A label from the products must accompany each pie entered in this contest. Merchandise awards of General Mills toasters, Betty Crocker Tru Heat irons and Betty Crocker cookbooks will be given as prizes each day.

The other contest, sponsored by Pumpkin Show Inc., allows contestants to use any ingredients and will give cash premiums of $5 first prize, $3 second prize and $2 third, for each day.

First place winners in either contest will be eligible to compete for the grand prize, a Frigidaire Electric range to be presented by Governor Lausche Saturday night.

Both contests will be held at Circleville Appliance Co. where pies may be entered between 10 a. m. and 11:30 a. m. Judging will be held at noon.

The Frigidaire range to be given as a grand prize and merchandise prizes are on display in Circleville Appliance Co. The range is also being displayed by J. W. Weaver and Son on North Court street.

Now that their country is once again building up its military and industrial might for defense, they are finding urgent jobs for the telephone to do. On top of this, they are using the telephone more than ever before in their business and social lives; there is no letup in new civilian demand. But the company must be financially strong if it is to help make the State and nation strong. Its financial strengh, like that of all businesses, depends upon its ability to obtain the money it needs to do the job. To do this, our company must have high enough earnings so that people with money to invest will want to invest it in telephone securities.

In other words, the company must earn well if it is to serve well. That is why we have requested an increase in our rates.

Hamilton Race Track Is Given Clean Bill Health

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12 — The management of Hamilton race track stands absolved of any "improper practices" and the horse trainer who made the charges will remain under suspension until Dec. 20.

The state racing commission reached at least one conclusion yesterday, after adjourning an abortive hearing on alleged "race fixing" in Ohio, and said the suspension would stand for Trainer George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex.

Despite the vote of a "clean bill of health" for Hamilton, the commission decided to turn over a transcript of testimony in the Becknell case to the Butler County prosecutor.

Becknell was suspended indefinitely after he charged the tail of his horse, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the back of the starting gate at Hamilton on Aug. 22.

It was during the commission's hearings on "tailing" of horses that Robert C. Reed, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association, made charges of "fixed races."

FINAL TALLY IS 19-13

Tigers Fumble, Stumble To Victory Over Monroe

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team fumbled and stumbled into a narrow 19-13 victory over invading Monroe Hornet gridders Friday night.

Feature of the contest was the ease with which both teams bobbled the ball, Circleville juggling the pigskin seven times and Monroe fumbling six times.

Of the total 13 fumbles, the Tigers grabbed five Monroe miscues, Monroe recovered from Circleville six times and each team picked up one of its own fumbles.

But the large number of fumbles, especially at crucial points in the contest, heightened the excitement for the fans.

Circleville ripped off two touchdowns without a serious threat from the invading hornets during the long first half of the encounter.

But, blowing their 13 - point margin, the Tigers were deadlocked with the Hornets at 13-13 in the last half with only four minutes of play remaining when they collected their game-winning tally via a 38-yard scoring pass.

* * *

THE TIGERS gained control of the game four plays after their final touchdown when End Charles Johnson cracked Monroe Quarterback Jim Williams while Williams was attemptng a pass and Big Bill Gillis grabbed the ball and started to run. The ball was ruled dead where Gillis picked it up, however, but in Circleville's possession.

Circleville opened the ball game in a frenzy, taking the kickoff on their own 15 and moving up to their 42 in six plays?. A 15-yard clipping penalty moved the ball back to the 31, however, after Halfback Jerry Pritchard had ripped off six yards.

On the next play, Quarterback Jerry Rooney let fly a long pass downfield which hit Pritchard on the dead run on about the Monroe 35, and Pritchard outraced the Hornet defenders to score. The play covered 69 yards. Guard John Cockrell converted by placement.

Neither team threatened seriously for the remainder of the extra-long first stanza, although a boot by Pritchard from his own 47 rolled out of bounds on the Monroe three-yard stripe as a feature of the quarter.

Fumbling began showing up late in the first period and was evident throughout the remainder of the game.

* * *

OPENING WITH the ball on the Monroe 45 as a result of a Monroe boot, the Tigers sent Paul Hill charging through right tackle for 19 yards. A Rooney-to-Pritchard pass advanced the ball 10 yards to the 16 and Fred Davis moved it down to the 10 on a spurt through left guard.

Pritchard, captain for Friday's contest, tucked the ball under his arm on the next play to flow through a right tackle opening good for the final 10 yards into paydirt for his second TD of the evening. Cockrell's attempted boot was blocked, and the Tigers held a 13-0 edge as the half ended.

Monroe came from the lockerrooms following the halftime rest with a splurge of power, rolling 22 yards on four plays before giving the Tigers the ball on their own 39.

Then began a series of Tiger fumbles with Monroe recovering. The fumbles culminated with a CHS bobble on its own 25, with Monroe taking over.

Monroe picked up 12 yards on its first play, lost two on the next and gained seven on the third to put the ball on the Tiger 8.

After a third-down play with no gain, speedy Fred Myers shot around right end for the eight-yard TD, Weir duplicating the feat on the conversion attempt to make the score 13-7.

* * *

WITH THE fourth quarter less than a minute away, the Tigers again fumbled, losing the ball on their own 28 after having picked up a first down on the last play.

Monroe advanced the ball down to the Tiger six-yard stripe on the next seven plays, was held to a one-yard gain on the next two plays.

But on the third down of the series, Myers latched onto a 5-yard toss from Quarterback Williams good for the score-tying marker.

After another exchange of fumbles, Circleville took over in the final five minutes of play on its 40-yard line. The next two pass plays put the ball down on the Monroe 30 within easy range of the Tiger aerial attack.

On the first play of the series, Rooney lost seven, while Davis lost one on the next play.

Rooney uncorked the game-winning pass to Pritchard on the enemy goal line on the next play, however, good for the final 38 yards and providing the CHS'ers with their 19-13 win.

And Halfback Pritchard, a converted quarterback, was credited with all three touchdowns for his Tiger team.

* * *

THE VICTORY gave the Red and Black gridders a record of four wins in five starts to date with one of their roughest foes on deck.

The locals will play host to invading St. Charles here next Friday night, the only team before this season which was able to best the Tigers in three undefeated seasons of play.

Linups for both teams in the contest, followed by statistics of the game, follow:

Circleville

Hamilton Race Track Is Given Clean Bill Health

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12 — The management of Hamilton race track stands absolved of any "improper practices" and the horse trainer who made the charges will remain under suspension until Dec. 20.

The state racing commission reached at least one conclusion yesterday, after adjourning an abortive hearing on alleged "race fixing" in Ohio, and said the suspension would stand for Trainer George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex.

Despite the vote of a "clean bill of health" for Hamilton, the commission decided to turn over a transcript of testimony in the Becknell case to the Butler County prosecutor.

Becknell was suspended indefinitely after he charged the tail of his horse, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the back of the starting gate at Hamilton on Aug. 22.

It was during the commission's hearings on "tailing" of horses that Robert C. Reed, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association, made charges of "fixed races."

FINAL TALLY IS 19-13

Tigers Fumble, Stumble To Victory Over Monroe

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team fumbled and stumbled into a narrow 19-13 victory over invading Monroe Hornet gridders Friday night.

Feature of the contest was the ease with which both teams bobbled the ball, Circleville juggling the pigskin seven times and Monroe fumbling six times.

Of the total 13 fumbles, the Tigers grabbed five Monroe miscues, Monroe recovered from Circleville six times and each team picked up one of its own fumbles.

But the large number of fumbles, especially at crucial points in the contest, heightened the excitement for the fans.

Circleville ripped off two touchdowns without a serious threat from the invading hornets during the long first half of the encounter.

But, blowing their 13 - point margin, the Tigers were deadlocked with the Hornets at 13-13 in the last half with only four minutes of play remaining when they collected their game-winning tally via a 38-yard scoring pass.

* * *

THE TIGERS gained control of the game four plays after their final touchdown when End Charles Johnson cracked Monroe Quarterback Jim Williams while Williams was attemptng a pass and Big Bill Gillis grabbed the ball and started to run. The ball was ruled dead where Gillis picked it up, however, but in Circleville's possession.

Circleville opened the ball game in a frenzy, taking the kickoff on their own 15 and moving up to their 42 in six plays?. A 15-yard clipping penalty moved the ball back to the 31, however, after Halfback Jerry Pritchard had ripped off six yards.

On the next play, Quarterback Jerry Rooney let fly a long pass downfield which hit Pritchard on the dead run on about the Monroe 35, and Pritchard outraced the Hornet defenders to score. The play covered 69 yards. Guard John Cockrell converted by placement.

Neither team threatened seriously for the remainder of the extra-long first stanza, although a boot by Pritchard from his own 47 rolled out of bounds on the Monroe three-yard stripe as a feature of the quarter.

Fumbling began showing up late in the first period and was evident throughout the remainder of the game.

* * *

OPENING WITH the ball on the Monroe 45 as a result of a Monroe boot, the Tigers sent Paul Hill charging through right tackle for 19 yards. A Rooney-to-Pritchard pass advanced the ball 10 yards to the 16 and Fred Davis is moved it down to the 10 on a spurt through left guard.

Pritchard, captain for Friday's contest, tucked the ball under his arm on the next play to flow through a right tackle opening good for the final 10 yards into paydirt for his second TD of the evening. Cockrell's attempted boot was blocked, and the Tigers held a 13-0 edge as the half ended.

Monroe came from the lockerrooms following the halftime rest with a splurge of power, rolling 22 yards on four plays before giving the Tigers the ball on their own 39.

Then began a series of Tiger fumbles with Monroe recovering. The fumbles culminated with a CHS bobble on its own 25, with Monroe taking over.

Monroe picked up 12 yards on its first play, lost two on the next and gained seven on the third to put the ball on the Tiger 8.

After a third-down play with no gain, speedy Fred Myers shot around right end for the eight-yard TD, Weir duplicating the feat on the conversion attempt to make the score 13-7.

* * *

WITH THE fourth quarter less than a minute away, the Tigers again fumbled, losing the ball on their own 28 after having picked up a first down on the last play.

Monroe advanced the ball down to the Tiger six-yard stripe on the next seven plays, was held to a one-yard gain on the next two plays.

But on the third down of the series, Myers latched onto a 5-yard toss from Quarterback Williams good for the score-tying marker.

After another exchange of fumbles, Circleville took over in the final five minutes of play on its 40-yard line. The next two pass plays put the ball down on the Monroe 30 within easy range of the Tiger aerial attack.

On the first play of the series, Rooney lost seven, while Davis lost one on the next play.

Rooney uncorked the game-winning pass to Pritchard on the enemy goal line on the next play, however, good for the final 38 yards and providing the CHS'ers with their 19-13 win.

And Halfback Pritchard, a converted quarterback, was credited with all three touchdowns for his Tiger team.

* * *

THE VICTORY gave the Red and Black gridders a record of four wins in five starts to date with one of their roughest foes on deck.

The locals will play host to invading St. Charles here next Friday night, the only team before this season which was able to best the Tigers in three undefeated seasons of play.

Homecoming Program Highlights Halftime At Friday Football Tilt

Feature of the evenng was presentation of Homecoming Queen Marjorie Allen and her court.

Attending the queen, a CHS junior, were Doris Edgington and Nancy Goodchild, while escorts for the queen and her court were Roy Huffer, Gerald Smith and Paul David Young.

The evening's program was opened with the National Anthem, played by the combined bands of Circleville and Monroe.

Monroe's 60-piece blue and gold marching band was the first to perform at halftime, forming at the west end and marching to the CHS stands, where they formed an "H" and "I" as greetings.

* * *

NEXT, THE visiting unit moved into a block "C" for Circleville, moved across the field to form an "M" for Monroe and then returned to the CHS stands, where the major portion of their show was presented.

The visitors formed a huge G-clef to play "There's Music in the Air." They then moved into the outlines of a banjo, bugle and harp, ending their program by marching across the east goal.

Moving downfield, the Red and Black bandsmen faced the Monroe stands to form into letters "Hi M" to welcome the visiting fans.

From that formation, the band swung about in a square turn while playing "Auld Lang Syne" and maneuvered into a stage formation, where Drum Major Phyllis Dresbach and Majorettes Beverly Elsea, Luhrita Buskirk, Linda Dresbach, Jackie Smith, Marlene Mancini and Ann Stocklen were featured in a square dance routine to "Turkey in the Straw."

* * *

FOLLOWING the square dance, the drum major and majorettes saluted the queen and her court as they moved across the field to the Circleville stands.

Next formation for the bandsmen was a letter "C" inside a giant circle while they played "Our Boys Will Shine Tonight." In that formation they also played 'The Red and Black."

Waltons Urged To Try Double Barrel Method

In the fall, with hunting season just around the corner, the fisherman would do well to tear a page from the hunter's notebook, say expert fish researchers.

For instance, many old-time hunters used to carry a double barrel shotgun with the comforting thought that they would have a second shot at their target in case the first one missed.

There are a number of old-time plug casters who use a double-barreled attack in their fall fishing with equally good sults and here's how it's done. . .

In the Fall, as most anglers know, fishing is a hit or miss proposition. But there are three certainties. (1) They are hitting on topwater lures. (2) They are hitting underwater lures. (3) They aren't hitting, period!

* * *

TO QUICKLY find exactly where they are hitting, try this double-barreled attack. Set up two rods; one with a surface lure and the other rod with an underwater lure.

Cast the chugger near weeds or lily pads, take the slack out of your line and lay the rod across your lap. Pick up the other rod and cast the river runt near cover in another direction, then retrieve it while you keep your eye on that chugger.

After the river runt is retrieved, pick up the rod in your lap, slowly take up the slack line, and gently work the chugger a few times.

Then, look out! This is when you're likely to have your hair stood on end by a strike that sounds like a flat rock dropped from a tall cliff.

On the other hand, maybe the river runt brought a nice one in with it. If so, they want it under water. Whichever plug produces first, keep using it. Should they seem hungry for the chugger, put one on both rods and give them their fill.

This double-barreled style not only will bring you more fish, it will also make a better topwater fisherman out of you by making you work a surface lure as slowly as it should be worked.

Washington C. H. Ties Circleville For League Lead

While Circleville was battling Friday night to come up with a 19-13 victory over invading Monroe, Washington C. H. bounced into a tie with the Tigers for South Central Ohio League honors.

Washington's Blue Lions pulled even with the CHS Tigers in SCOL standings with a lopsided 72-6 victory over Hillsboro.

Both teams now have won two league encounters in as many starts this season, Washington with wins over Greenfield and Hillsboro and Circleville with wins over Wilmington and Hillsboro.

Scoring in the lopsided Washington-Hillsboro fracas went like this:

Washington	20	27	12	13—72
Hillsboro ...	0	0	0	6— 6

* * *

WINDING UP the game in the last half, Washington substituted everyone on the bench, and at orders by their coach to "have fun," the Blue Lion backfielders played line spots and the linemen took backfield posts.

Meanwhile, Greenfield and Wilmington battled to a 6-6 tie Friday night in another SCOL encounter on the Wilmington gridiron. Circleville bested Wilmington earlier 18-6 while Washington beat Greenfield 13-7.

Complete league standings to date follow:

Standings

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
Washington	2	0	0
Wilmington	0	1	1
Greenfield	0	1	1
Hillsboro	0	2	0

Quirk In Clock Clicks Off 21-Minute Quarter

And if the next three periods had been run off like the first, they might have been there yet.

Official timekeeper John Heiskell began to grow uneasy Friday night on duty in the press box when the first period of play began to drag.

"Seems like it's taking an awful long time for one quarter," he opined out loud, seeking assurance for the statement. With 2:26 minutes of play left in the first quarter, according to the scoreboard, the first period to that point already had consumed 45 minutes.

Calling Referee Bob Ryan to the booth, Heiskell asked the official to keep time on the field for the remainder of the period.

* * *

WHEN THE first period was halted by the officials on the field, 1:35 minutes still remained on the scoreboard clock.

Later timing the scoreboard against a stopwatch, it was found the scoreboard took two full seconds to run off one second, or just twice as long as it was supposed to.

Judging from that, the first period must have exceeded the regulation 12 minutes playing time by at least nine minutes, or a 21-minute quarter.

The statistics showed it, too. A total of 44 actual plays, not counting penalties or kickoffs, were run in the first period. Only 31 were run off in the second, 32 in the third and 29 in the fourth.

More than 95 per cent of Wisconsin's corn acreage was planted with hybrid seed corn in 1948. This proportion has since increased.

Sokolsky's

These Days

"The most important point in any Anglo-Egyptian talks is that Egypt will not stand on their side at any time so long as they insist on occupying our territory and on separating the Sudan from Egypt."

Egypt has been placing restrictions upon the movements of shipping and goods in the Suez Canal, an issue now before the Security Council of the United Nations. Egypt's participation in Arab wars against Israel raises the question of her right as a belligerent in the control of the Suez Canal, which is in her territory.

The crux of the problem is that Egypt stands on her sovereign rights as an independent state. Great Britain cannot enforce her will on any country; the United Nations cannot enforce its decisions. Therefore, such countries as Soviet China, Iran and Egypt violate treaties, contracts and international law without fear of reprisal.

The burden of maintaining the power and authority of both Great Britain and the United Nations therefore falls upon the United States.

Homecoming Program Highlights Halftime At Friday Football Tilt

Feature of the evenng was presentation of Homecoming Queen Marjorie Allen and her court.

Attending the queen, a CHS junior, were Doris Edgington and Nancy Goodchild, while escorts for the queen and her court were Roy Huffer, Gerald Smith and Paul David Young.

The evening's program was opened with the National Anthem, played by the combined bands of Circleville and Monroe.

Monroe's 60-piece blue and gold marching band was the first to perform at halftime, forming at the west end and marching to the CHS stands, where they formed an "H" and "I" as greetings.

* * *

NEXT, THE visiting unit moved into a block "C" for Circleville, moved across the field to form an "M" for Monroe and then returned to the CHS stands, where the major portion of their show was presented.

The visitors formed a huge G-clef to play "There's Music in the Air." They then moved into the outlines of a banjo, bugle and harp, ending their program by marching across the east goal.

Moving downfield, the Red and Black bandsmen faced the Monroe stands to form into letters "Hi M" to welcome the visiting fans.

From that formation, the band swung about in a square turn while playing "Auld Lang Syne" and maneuvered into a stage formation, where Drum Major Phyllis Dresbach and Majorettes Beverly Elsea, Luhrita Buskirk, Linda Dresbach, Jackie Smith, Marlene Mancini and Ann Stocklen were featured in a square dance routine to "Turkey in the Straw."

* * *

FOLLOWING the square dance, the drum major and majorettes saluted the queen and her court as they moved across the field to the Circleville stands.

Next formation for the bandsmen was a letter "C" inside a giant circle while they played "Our Boys Will Shine Tonight." In that formation they also played 'The Red and Black."

Final portion of the program was a series of drill maneuvers as the band left the field. The CHS band will be one of the featured attractions next week during the 45th annual Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Washington C. H. Ties Circleville For League Lead

While Circleville was battling Friday night to come up with a 19-13 victory over invading Monroe, Washington C. H. bounced into a tie with the Tigers for South Central Ohio League honors.

Washington's Blue Lions pulled even with the CHS Tigers in SCOL standings with a lopsided 72-6 victory over Hillsboro.

Both teams now have won two league encounters in as many starts this season, Washington with wins over Greenfield and Hillsboro and Circleville with wins over Wilmington and Hillsboro.

Scoring in the lopsided Washington-Hillsboro fracas went like this:

Washington	20	27	12	13—72
Hillsboro ...	0	0	0	6— 6

* * *

WINDING UP the game in the last half, Washington substituted everyone on the bench, and at orders by their coach to "have fun," the Blue Lion backfielders played line spots and the linemen took backfield posts.

Meanwhile, Greenfield and Wilmington battled to a 6-6 tie Friday night in another SCOL encounter on the Wilmington gridiron. Circleville bested Wilmington earlier 18-6 while Washington beat Greenfield 13-7.

Complete league standings to date follow:

Standings

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
Washington	2	0	0
Wilmington	0	1	1
Greenfield	0	1	1
Hillsboro	0	2	0

Quirk In Clock Clicks Off 21-Minute Quarter

And if the next three periods had been run off like the first, they might have been there yet.

Official timekeeper John Heiskell began to grow uneasy Friday night on duty in the press box when the first period of play began to drag.

"Seems like it's taking an awful long time for one quarter," he opined out loud, seeking assurance for the statement. With 2:26 minutes of play left in the first quarter, according to the scoreboard, the first period to that point already had consumed 45 minutes.

Calling Referee Bob Ryan to the booth, Heiskell asked the official to keep time on the field for the remainder of the period.

* * *

WHEN THE first period was halted by the officials on the field, 1:35 minutes still remained on the scoreboard clock.

Later timing the scoreboard against a stopwatch, it was found the scoreboard took two full seconds to run off one second, or just twice as long as it was supposed to.

Judging from that, the first period must have exceeded the regulation 12 minutes playing time by at least nine minutes, or a 21-minute quarter.

The statistics showed it, too. A total of 44 actual plays, not counting penalties or kickoffs, were run in the first period. Only 31 were run off in the second, 32 in the third and 29 in the fourth.

More than 95 per cent of Wisconsin's corn acreage was planted with hybrid seed corn in 1948. This proportion has since increased.

Sokolsky's

These Days

"The most important point in any Anglo-Egyptian talks is that Egypt will not stand on their side at any time so long as they insist on occupying our territory and on separating the Sudan from Egypt."

Egypt has been placing restrictions upon the movements of shipping and goods in the Suez Canal, an issue now before the Security Council of the United Nations. Egypt's participation in Arab wars against Israel raises the question of her right as a belligerent in the control of the Suez Canal, which is in her territory.

The crux of the problem is that Egypt stands on her sovereign rights as an independent state. Great Britain cannot enforce her will on any country; the United Nations cannot enforce its decisions. Therefore, such countries as Soviet China, Iran and Egypt violate treaties, contracts and international law without fear of reprisal.

The burden of maintaining the power and authority of both Great Britain and the United Nations therefore falls upon the United States.

Waltons Urged To Try Double Barrel Method

In the fall, with hunting season just around the corner, the fisherman would do well to tear a page from the hunter's notebook, say expert fish researchers.

For instance, many old-time hunters used to carry a double barrel shotgun with the comforting thought that they would have a second shot at their target in case the first one missed.

There are a number of old-time plug casters who use a double-barreled attack in their fall fishing with equally good sults and here's how it's done. . .

In the Fall, as most anglers know, fishing is a hit or miss proposition. But there are three certainties. (1) They are hitting on topwater lures. (2) They are hitting underwater lures. (3) They aren't hitting, period!

* * *

TO QUICKLY find exactly where they are hitting, try this double-barreled attack. Set up two rods; one with a surface lure and the other rod with an underwater lure.

Cast the chugger near weeds or lily pads, take the slack out of your line and lay the rod across your lap. Pick up the other rod and cast the river runt near cover in another direction, then retrieve it while you keep your eye on that chugger.

After the river runt is retrieved, pick up the rod in your lap, slowly take up the slack line, and gently work the chugger a few times.

Then, look out! This is when you're likely to have your hair stood on end by a strike that sounds like a flat rock dropped from a tall cliff.

On the other hand, maybe the river runt brought a nice one in with it. If so, they want it under water. Whichever plug produces first, keep using it. Should they seem hungry for the chugger, put one on both rods and give them their fill.

This double-barreled style not only will bring you more fish, it will also make a better topwater fisherman out of you by making you work a surface lure as slowly as it should be worked.

TED LEWIS, jazzed it up and hit the top in his field.

BILL TRONE, he obeyed orders and made good, too.

Editor's Note: Circleville's two most famous musical sons, Ted Lewis and Bill Trone, started their careers here and went their separate and divided ways—each finding success in the big city. In the following article, written by Columbus Citizen Writer George Ammer, also of Circleville, the two musicians are described. Ammer interview-Trone during a recent vacation trip to New York City.

William Andrew Trone is another Circleville boy who made good as a musician in the big city.

The word "another," of course, is used to reserve a niche for bandleader Ted Lewis, Circleville's No. 1 claim to fame.

Trone is a trombonist and orchestra contractor for Donald Voorhees, conductor of the symphony orchestra on "The Telephone Hour" over NBC every Monday at 9 p. m. He lives in Forest Hills, Long Island.

Trombonist Trone and Lewis played together in "Professor" John Gill's boys' band in Circleville. That was in 1910.

Trone chuckles as he recalls how Lewis jazzed up the "Poet and Peasant Overture" (among others) and eventually was thrown out of the band.

This, Bill will tell you, was no reflection on Ted's musical abilities. Ted had new ideas in music. He played something the nation later was to call jazz and to accept in a big way.

* * *

BOTH LEWIS and Trone had enthusiasm for music, both got their start in the boys' band and both eventually made good in the big time.

The story of how Ted Lewis left home with his clarinet and rapidly rose to fame is well known. Ted did the unusual. That jazz, of his, the "selling" of a song with the motions of his hands, the catch line "Is everybody happy?" and that high hat —all contributed to his skyrocketing success.

Bill Trone, however didn't jazz up the Circleville band's music. He chose to play notes just as they were intended. He didn't get thrown out.

He continued his schooling, was graduated from Ohio university at Athens in 1920, and got a start in the advertising field.

But Trone's love for music kept him with orchestras. He played in Cincinnati and Detroit and then, in 1925, went to New York and took a job with a dance band in the Commodore Hotel.

The next year Trone appeared in his first radio broadcast, a musical program from the Earl Carroll Vanities.

* * *

FROM THAT day until this, Bill Trone has stayed with radio. Twenty-five years.

And just as music meant success to Ted Lewis, music also brought success to Bill Trone. But, Bill is quick to add: "I haven't made the money Ted has." The explanation probably is that the pay's higher when you do the unusual instead of the conventional.

Trone is 53. He is married to the former Oneta Norcross of Sidney, O., whom he met at the university in Athens. They have two sons, Robert and James, both college students.

As orchestra contractor for Voorhees, Trone obtains musicians and handles the personnel management and music supply problems. In addition, he plays the trombone as a member of the orchestra.

Trone will tell you that Voorhees has one of the finest symphonic groups on the air. Of the 57 musicians, 41 are from the original group organized in 1940. Besides the "Bell Telephone Hour," you can hear them on other programs, including the famous duPont "Cavalcade of America" on NBC on Tuesdays at 8 p. m.

Other programs on which Trone has played include "Cities Service Band of America" and the Jimmy Durante and Ed Wynn shows.

* * *

TRONE'S INTEREST in music began at the age of 8 when his father gave him a trumpet for Christmas. His father, the late Orville Trone, was Circleville's assistant postmaster for many years. His stepmother is Mrs. I. W. Kinsey ofCircleville.

In recent years, Trone has made only few trips back to Ohio. The latest was a couple of years ago when he attended a party given by John Galbreath, Columbus real estate man, who was Trone's fraternity brother and roommate at Ohio U.

What about Bill Trone and television?

Well, he thinks there's plenty of research to be done before orchestras can become big television features. TV requires action, he points out.

There's not enough of it in closeups of an individual player. And the overall picture of an orchestra on the TV screen for long periods just doesn't appeal to the average viewer.

* * *

WHAT'S THE answer? That's yet to be learned, but Trone tells of one experiment. It's the old dramatization of the story told by the music, while the orchestra plays. The TV cameras can pick up intermittent shots of the orchestra and its individual members in the lapse between scenes and stanzas.

That type of television use of orchestras is costly and has been tried only in experiemnts. So television hasn't provided orchestras as many opportunities as they expected.

Music as a hobby is fine, but if you're considering it as an occupation, Trone warns that it's a crowded field in the big cities.

Crippled Kiddies Society To Meet

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13 — The two-day 32nd annual meeting of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children opens here today with three of the nation's top authorities on cerebral palsy treatment slated to speak.

Visiting experts are Dr. Harold B. Westlake of Northwestern university, Dr. Leslie B. Hohman of Duke university and Dr. Winthrop M. Phelps, medical director of the Children's Rehabilitation Institute in Cockeysville, Md.

'52 GOP Victory Declared 'Must'

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 13—The Republican national chairman believes it will be "pretty much the end of the trail" unless there is a GOP victory next year.

Guy Gabrielson told a rally of Butler County party workers that "the Pendergast gang has control of the government today" and pleaded:

"Let's return the government to the people. Let's have the government the servant of the people, not the people the servants of the government."

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

For some years I was so incensed at the atrocious practice of some movies and comic strips of portraying, under the guise of humor, the teacher as an ugly, irascible and ridiculous person, I revolved that if ever I edited a publication for children I would present the teacher always at her best.

Since I have been editing such a publication, I have been able to carry out my earlier resolve. For example, in a recent issue of that publication I chat with the young listener and reader about the lovely teacher he has, or will have, about as follows:

If you are too young to go to school, you often hear your older brothers or sisters or playmates tell how wonderful their teachers are. If you are in the kindergarten, first grade, second grade, third grade or higher, you find it hard to listen long when a classmate tells of all the good ways of a teacher, before you try to say still better things about your teacher.

At the dinner table or around the fireside at home, you may so often talk about the wonderful things your teacher says and does that your mother sometimes supposes you love your teacher even more than you love your parents. Yet your parents really know you love them most. They are glad you like your teacher. They are pretty sure that, next to your mother and father and grandparents, the most important person in all the worl dto you is your teacher.

* * *

AT SCHOO, your teacher makes you feel big and grown-up. She helps you to want to wait on yourself and be thoughtful of everybody else. You learn to be quiet and to listen when she talks to the class so the other children can hear her. You learn to work well with other children and to play well with them.

Sometimes the class or the teacher choose you to do something for all of them. Then you try to do this very well, for you know they think you are pretty big, else they would not have chosen you.

Your tezacher always is so neat, er voice is so soft and low and you admire her so, that you try hard to imitate her.

So before you leave home for school you try to make sure your hands and fingernails and face and neck and ears are very clean, your shoes tidy and your hair neatly combed.

The reason there are so many fine persons like you is because there are so many fine parents and teachers.

I wish many parents and young children who go to school would read to them the foregoing, or talk at quiet times with them about such matters.

In the midst of the chat as it appears in that children's publication, is a picture of an attractive teacher and two children. Beneath the picture is this: "These children enjoy talking to their teacher. She always likes to hear anything they wish to say."

Let us play up before our children the strengths and virtues of their teacher nd celebrate her successes with them.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. We have one child, a daughter, six. When we sit down to eat we must wait for her, and when she arrives, we must often send her back to wash her hands.

A. Give her a warning call about ten minutes before the meal will be served. Then on the final call, expect her to arrive promptly, properly groomed. If she does not, require her to sit without food several feet from the table while the rest of the family eat. And be sure there is no funeral silence at the table in the meantime.

PICK YOUR CORN EARLY!

Dry It In Crib, with Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Tunnels

New, modern, fast way to dry corn. No more waiting for corn to dry in fields. Pick early, when mechanical pickers work best. Crib it, and let Behlen Ventilators and Tunnels dry corn faster than you ever dreamed possible.

GOODBYE TO CORN BORERS!

Agricultural colleges and experimental stations recommend picking early, to help control corn borers. You get your corn into cribs to dry, and shred or chop stalks and plow under before ground freezes, to kill the borers.

Behlen Tunnels not only ventilate, but are very handy for shelling. Just run sheller "drag" into tunnel, as at left. Pull out tunnel sections one by one. Corn drops onto conveyor belt. Saves hours of labor!

COME IN NOW!

Don't wait. We have Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Corn Tunnels on hand now. But due to present industrial situation, we cannot promise we will get any more this fall. We strongly urge you to come in right away, while we are still able to supply you. Cost is less than for old-style wood ventilators.

Ted Lewis And Bill Trone: Musicians Who Made Good
